INTRODUCTION

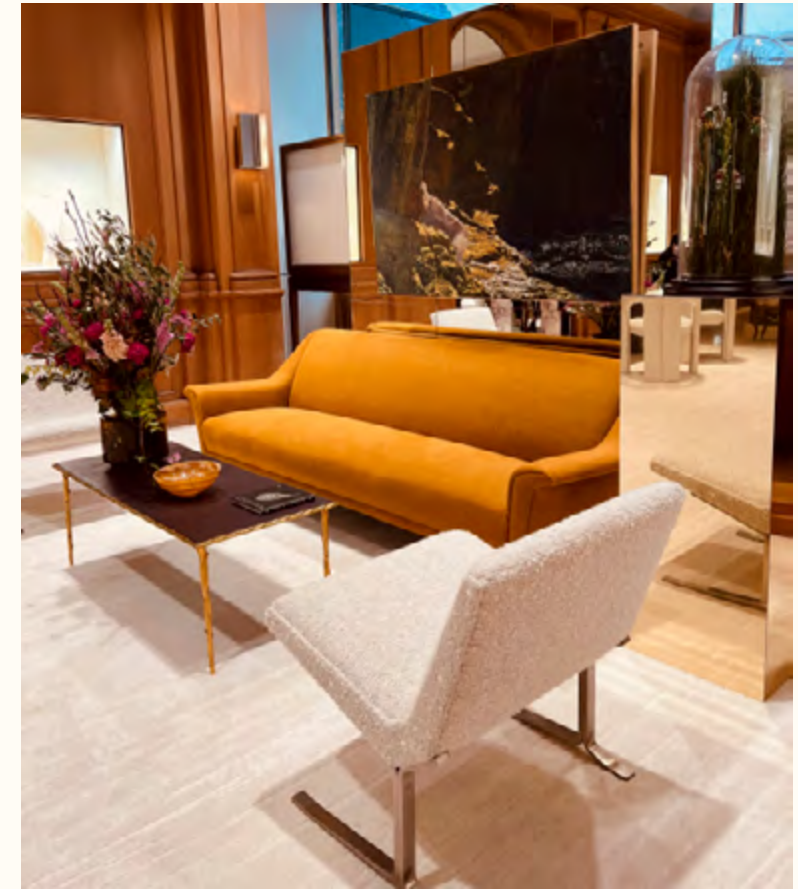

Founded in 1613, Maison Mellerio is the oldest and last independent house of jewelry in the world.

THE HOUSE OF MELLERIO

Founded in 1613, Maison Mellerio is the oldest and last independent house of jewelry in the world. Ruled by the same family for 15 generations, the brand creates the most desirable and effortless pieces of jewelry imbued by a Parisian style, a deep knowledge of the Arts and an exceptional savoir-faire. Located at 9 rue de la Paix, Mellerio was the first Maison de Joaillerie to set foot in the Place Vendôme area. Mellerio has been the go-to destinations for emperors, kings and queens from all over the world for generations making it an integral part of History. Today, the Mellerio boutique which is the House of the Mellerios embodies the spirit and the modern yet effortless style of the family and their history.

PRESIDENT AND ARTISTIC DIRECTOR

Laure-Isabelle Mellerio, representing the 14th generation of the Mellerios, a family originally from Craveggia in Italy, is interior designer, art historian, and gemmology graduate. Today she is both president and artistic director of the oldest and last family owned jewelry house in France. Her ambition is to nurture the authentic and contemporary image of the Maison and ensure the awakening of this exceptional and unique best kept secret luxury house. Thanks to effortless but elegant and stylish creations, inspired by Italy and her own signature: contrasts of volumes, colours and materials.

CRAFTSMANSHIP

From the beginning, every generation of Mellerio has highlighted a creative skill, whether in design or manufacturing, allowing the House to always be fashionable and celebrated for the extreme quality of its creations, precious objects as well as jewels, from fine to high jewelry. Today our workshop is still located above the historical boutique at 9 rue de la Paix in Paris.

MELLERIO'S SIGNATURE

For 14 generations, the House of Mellerio has willingly inserted a reminder of its origins into its contemporary creations by means of a subtle geometric formula, totally discreet yet recognizable among a thousand initiates: this wink - devoid of any ostentation but equivalent to a signature - is illustrated by an oval inscribed in an ellipse. This ovoid motif has lent its mystery to the most famous creations of the jeweler on the rue de la Paix, multiplying in particular on the legendary peacock feather brooch designed for Empress Eugenie in 1868, flourishing in the Art Nouveau creations of the Belle Epoque, juxtaposed with technical prowess or stylistic audacity, and finally sketching itself out in the gourmand curves of the Maison's timepieces.

In this characteristic cut, the shape and memory of a mythical stone is reflected: the Beau Sancy. This diamond of Indian origin, of prodigious purity, was the stone of choice of Marie de Medicis. This same sovereign who, by decree, in 1613, granted the Mellerios, the privilege of exercising their activities in the kingdom, without being subject to corporate statutes, thus laying the foundations of an uninterrupted dynasty of jewelers, run today by Laure Isabelle Mellerio.

HIGH JEWELRY COLLECTIONS

Every day Mellerio's artisans dedicate their skills to create jewelry that can be one-off, unique pieces, or part of the new collections created each year. Today these jewels are worn by women who appreciate the quality, refinement and timeless style of Mellerio. Since 1815, all the jewelry design and creation phases, from initial drawings to the manufacturing of the pieces, have been taking place at 9, rue de la Paix, Paris.

THE MEDICI COLLAR

To celebrate its 400th anniversary, Mellerio created an exceptional high jewelry piece, as a tribute to the queen Marie de Medici. On the 10th October 1613, she granted exceptional privileges to the Mellerios who, according to the legend, helped to save his son the King Louis XIII. This special decree gave them the privilege of plying their trade in France without having to submit to the administrative restrictions generally applied.

This jewel is in white gold and has 15 non heated Mogok rubies (35,25 carats), of which 9 certificated as pigeon blood (21,36ct) gathered by M. Mellerio himself for 10 years, 7 round diamonds (7,73 carats), 18 marquise diamonds, 5060 diamonds (55,07 carats) and 3 pear-shaped south sea pearls. It took 4500 hours of work.

PIERRERIES

Inspired by the sculptural richness, joyful colours and romantic spirit of the jewellery created by the family company between 1820 and 1830, Laure Isabelle Mellerio, artistic director and president of Mellerio, combines with this new collection historical heritage and contemporary vitality.

The artistic director has woven together the radiance of yellow gold, the softness of pink gold and the strength of green gold to create sets with sensitively chosen gems: the nuances of the precious metal are combined with the serenity of purple amethysts shaded with pink, the generous charm of prasiolite in a vast range of green shades, the solar fires of citrine whose fiery orange hues or citrus freshness evoke the most beautiful façades found in Italian architecture. Depicting the purity of a river sparkling with light, an ornamental set contains a myriad of rutilated quartz crystals, with golden needle inclusions that seem to capture the sun's rays.

COLOR QUEEN

The story of Color Queen refers back to 1515: when François Ist was crowned King of France, he brought in many Italian artists to create in France a new artistic movement, the Italian Renaissance. From then on, painters, architects, but also jewelers arrived in France such as the Mellerios.

In order to pay homage to this extraordinary and creative time, Laure-Isabelle Mellerio has designed a collection of joyful and colorful rings called: «Color Queen».

ISOLA DEI PESCATORI

'Isola dei Pescatori' is the smallest of the Borromean Islands and yet the only one to be actually inhabited by fishermen. The charm and authenticity of this lakeside village, the water, the mesh of the fishing nets and the pebbles which pave the alleyways of the island, have inspired Laure-Isabelle Mellerio to create a collection that plays with contrasts of materials, colours and cuts of precious stones.

MAGLIA & STRESA

The fishing nets hanging on the walls of fishermen's houses inspired the aesthetic of 'Maglia' where the fine fishing mesh is reproduced in the pieces as a precious linkage. With an overall sense of lightness and grace, each piece has succeeded in finding the perfect balance between strength and flexibility.

INDRA

It is the ocellus, the most fascinating part of the peacock feather, located at the upper end of the feather, that Laure-Isabelle Mellerio has chosen to reinterpret. This mythical animal, the peacock is probably the most emblematic of Mellerio's artistic repertoire. Easy to wear and modern, each piece in the collection is available in three colour schemes: shades of blue to green, shades of pinks to oranges and glittering white.

MONTEROSA

The “Monterosa” collection represents a figurative interpretation of the wild rose, Mellerio’s emblematic flower. Sensual, feminine and poetic, these contemporary pieces are inspired by two of the House’s historical tiaras, both featuring an exceptional central wild rose: one ordered by the Queen of Spain in 1867 and the second by the Queen of Italy in 1868.

ENGAGEMENT

The Maison Mellerio is the go-to address when you are celebrating life's great events: engagement, marriage, wedding anniversary, birth of a child... all these special unique moments call for a piece of jewelry to immortalize them. That jewelry can be designed specifically for you, or chosen from the new collections created especially for those precious moments.

MELLERIO CUT COLLECTION

The uniqueness of the Mellerio Cut shape has its roots in the foundation of the family house and historically, the Beau Sancy diamond worn by Marie de Medici.

The Mellerio cut is an original and patented gemstone cut, developed entirely by the Parisian jewelry house Mellerio. Illustrating a unique know-how and rare mastery, it is characterized by the arrangement of 57 facets - 24 on the crown, 33 on the pavilion - which illuminate the stone to give it incomparable brilliance and sparkle. This exceptional cut - judged excellent by gemmological laboratories which give it an exceptional grade - highlights the final silhouette of the stone: an original and evocative ovoid silhouette.

LES MUSES PINK GOLD

The oldest jeweller on the Rue de la Paix, Mellerio, is returning to their roots and focusing on the fine jeweller's craft. These skills and many others have been passed down from generation to generation since 1613. Delving deep into their heritage, Mellerio is unveiling their first ever line of fine jewelry, under the guiding hand of Laure-Isabelle Mellerio, the artistic director and 14th generation of the family. Taking inspiration from the company's exceptional archives, Laure-Isabelle Mellerio has brought you a collection which revolves around heroines and muses – artists, socialites, princesses or courtesans, strong and resolutely free women – whose stories are interwoven with the company's history over the centuries. A collection of fine, exquisite jewels, brought up to date and designed to be easy to wear any day of the week. A collection to combine and wear close to your skin, like your own personal good-luck charms. Made from rose gold, with intricate beading and openwork, these are the fruit of traditional expertise and the highest quality craftsmanship. Mellerio has deliberately made this collection accessible, focusing on quality and desirability. This new collection is on centre stage at the company's historic flagship store at 9 Rue de la Paix, in a fully renovated and contemporary salon with mirrors to evoke the ever-changing facets of diamonds.

LES MUSES GREEN GOLD

Celebrating the aura of the women who have been part of the history of Maison Mellerio, Les Muses fine jewelry collection is enriched with new variations in green gold.

Imagined by Laure-Isabelle Mellerio, artistic director and president of Mellerio, Les Muses Green Gold collection is in harmony with renewal by celebrating the arrival of spring.

This symbiosis with nature is expressed through the use of an elegant and original alloy, called green gold: a metal regularly magnified by the family company, particularly in the 19th century. Characterised by a specific combination of gold and silver specially developed by Maison Mellerio, green gold invigorates with modernity the three chapters of the fine jewelry collection dedicated to its female muses - sovereigns, artists, icons, from Marie de Medici to George Sand and the Belle Otero, as well as Marie-Antoinette - who have shaped the odyssey of the House throughout the centuries.

Its acidulous fires, which shine with a luminous contrast on the skin, prosper on the rings, bracelets and necklaces of the collection, illuminate the cross and garden motifs of the lines dedicated to the 17th and 18th centuries, and underline with a zest of audacity the Art Nouveau-inspired creations and the esoteric evocations of the chapter dedicated to the 19th century.

Evoking the renewed vivacity of vegetation, this unique tint in contemporary jewelry design is in line with the naturalist inspiration dear to Maison Mellerio, while at the same time making a subtle nod to its iconic color and expressing its commitment to the environment, since the gold used in this alloy is recycled.

LES MUSES YELLOW GOLD

Laure-Isabelle Mellerio, artistic director and president of Maison Mellerio, uses the warmth of yellow gold and the fire of the precious stones in her new Riviera collection to convey the uniqueness of this land with its unreal borders and draws its essence from its sublime shores and mild climate, which is both invigorating and relaxing at the same time.

Using noble metal to convey the relief of a landscape where the abrupt mountain ranges are juxtaposed with the limpid calm of the crystalline waves, in her new creations the artistic director deploys a Virgilian gold framework that showcases the mastery of the Maison's artisans.

Sunlight seems to flow through the smooth gold, as if reflecting off the unchanging horizon of the sea, while the brushed gold seems to convey the genius of the natural forces that forged the mountains and the work of humankind who has traced sinuous routes along the corniches.

20TH CENTURY RIVIERA

Laure-Isabelle Mellerio presents a new collection that pays tribute to the refinement of a lifestyle steeped in history and bliss. Blending elegance and casualness, picturesque charm and love of the Avant-Garde, the French Riviera is naturally a source of inspiration for Maison Mellerio.

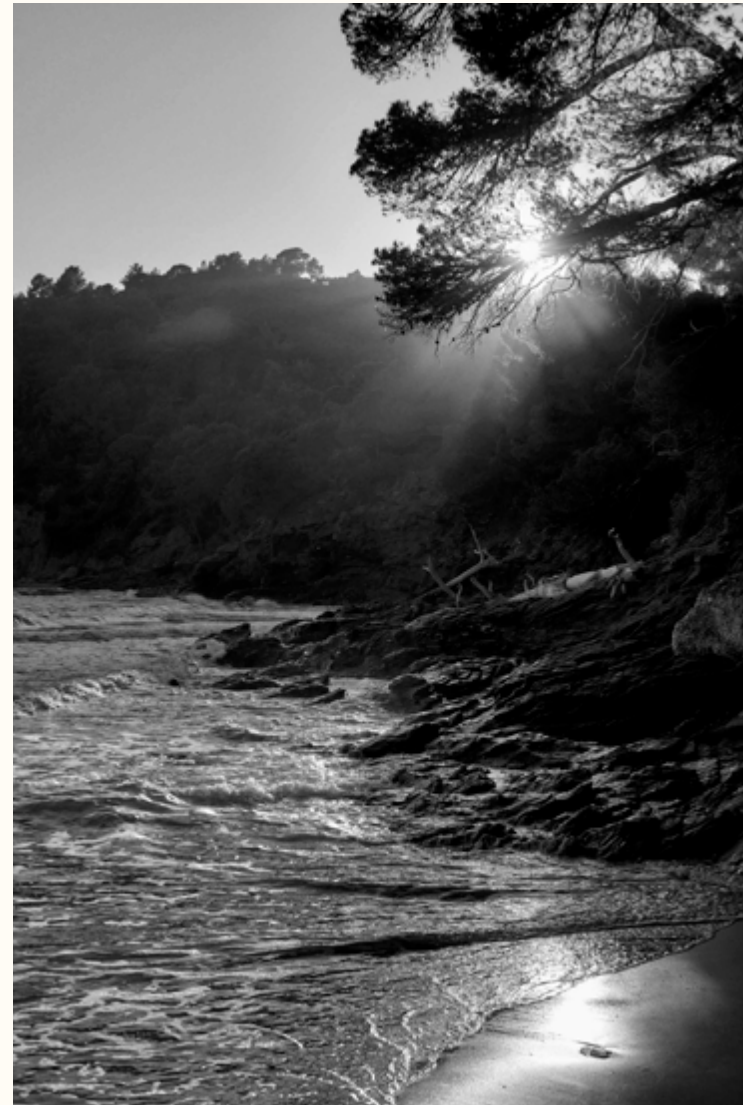

In tribute to the sixties and the glittering seasons characterized by festivity and joie de vivre, Laure-Isabelle Mellerio shapes light and enhances the colours that embellish these unique pieces, with their intertwining myriads of precious stones: soft emerald with its deep and intense green, evoking the parasol pines whose protective beauty is illuminated by the radiance of the diamond. A discreet evocation of the company's centuries-old history, the ovoid shape develops its graceful convolutions in a subtle recollection of the Beau Sancy and the Dolce Vita.

19TH CENTURY

GEORGE, LA BELLE OTERO, CLEO AND

The fleur-de-lys, a harmonious motif which runs through the archives, has been reinterpreted in the 19th century collection on a series of rose gold pieces created in homage to one of the company's most illustrious clients, the writer George Sand. Caroline Otero, known as La Belle Otéro, and Cléo de Merode, two artists and Parisian icons of the 19th century, also inspired Laure-Isabelle Mellerio to create the second part of this line, dedicated to the 19th century and its flourishing Art Nouveau movement. Lastly, majestic dragon's wings adorn rings, necklaces, and bracelets, while bat's wings are also on display in this collection. This surprising motif is evocative of the period's fashion for Gothic art and "white jewelry", a turning point for jewelry at the beginning of the 20th century.

LE PETIT CACTUS

A flower dear to the heart of Marie Antoinette, Mellerio's first Royal client, the vanilla cactus came originally from Mexico and the West Indies and only flowers for one night every year, at the beginning of spring. This exceptional night blossom was immortalised by the botanical painter Pierre-Joseph Redouté, upon the request of the Queen. This story was the inspiration behind the line dedicated to the 18th century, designed by Laure-Isabelle Mellerio. The central motif is built around the pistil, revealing a blossom in pink or green gold like a delicate flower in movement adorning long and short necklaces, bracelets, rings, and earrings.

LE PETIT CACTUS ROSE

Laure-Isabelle Mellerio also celebrates the new blooming season with an original interpretation of the Cactus line, which is adorned with spring colours. Framed by pink gold petals, the pistil of Marie Antoinette's dearest flower is represented by a pink sapphire in honour of the Queen's favourite colour, which she used to add to her outfits, fabrics and silks. A delicate evocation of the Trianon's dreamed garden, the chromatic energy of the precious stone velvets the rings, necklaces and bracelets of Le Petit Cactus Rose line with its delightful joy.

PINTA, MARIA, NINA AND GIARDINO

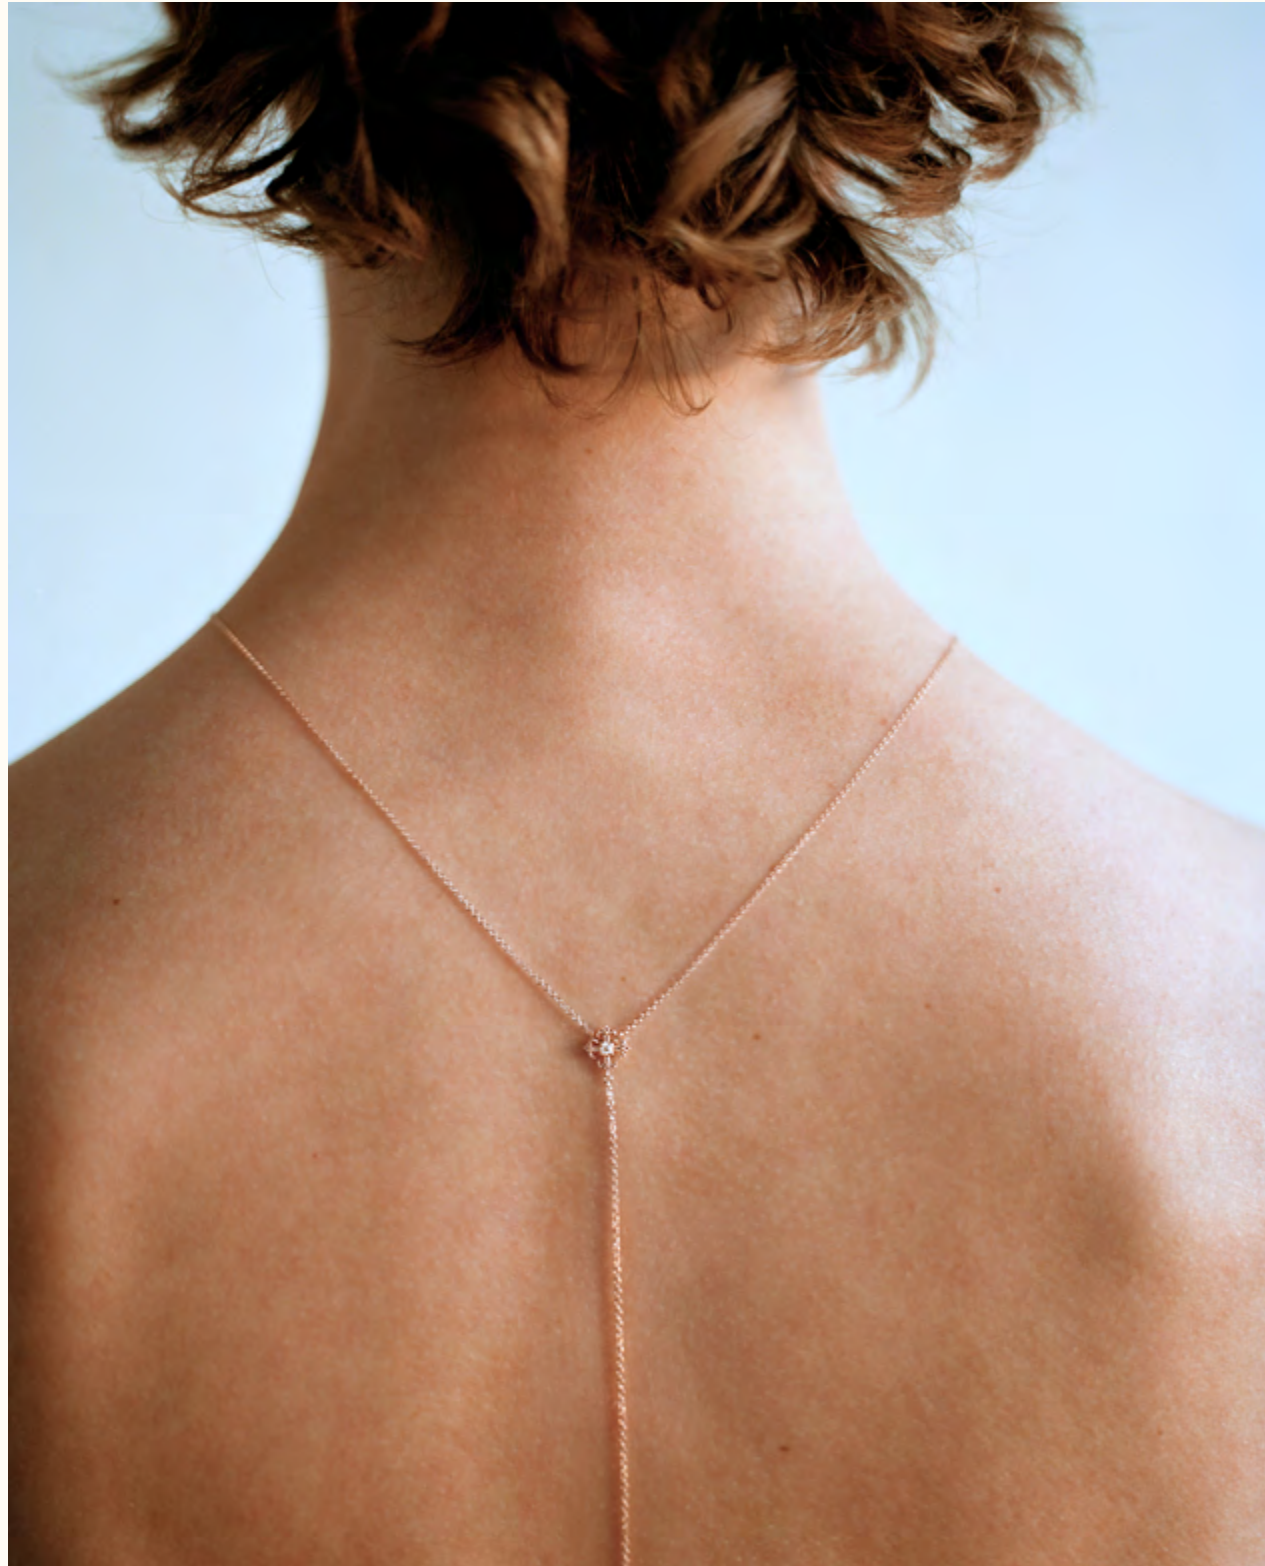

Laure-Isabelle looked to the Renaissance Period and the birth of the Mellerio Company for inspiration for the first line of this exquisitely unique collection. The cross, a universal symbol scattered throughout the company's archives, has been taken and reinvented in its purest, most contemporary form. You will see it on rings, bracelets, and necklaces, offering a gentle rock-and-roll vibe that can be worn like so many talismans. Gardens, and their endless ability to offer a new world and new adventures, were another inspiration for this 17th century line. One of Mellerio's most iconic signatures, this motif comes from an archive from the 1830's and shines through in the interlacing forms on some of our most desirable pieces. Wear these on their own or combined.

M CUT WATCHES

The ultimate watchmaking expression of Maison Mellerio, the M Cut collection unveils its new models that adopt a self-winding mechanical movement, housed in refined cases in yellow gold, white gold or steel with a diameter of 36.95 x 30 mm that fits all wrists, whether feminine or masculine.

Immediately recognizable, this singular shape is inspired by the Beau Sancy diamond, worn by Marie de Medici at her coronation. Marie de Medici was the Queen of France, which granted the Mellerios, by royal decree, the privileges allowing them to lay the foundations of their future dynasty in 1613. The open back reveals a mechanical movement: this ETA 2000 caliber features leaf shaped hour and minute hands, while the curved dial features a date window at 3 o'clock. The notched crown, firmly attached to the ovoid case, allows for water resistance to a depth of 30 meters. Reconciling the elegance of a refined shape with the technical demands of a caliber powered by a self-winding module, the new Mellerio timepieces are fitted with calfskin or alligator leather straps closed with a pin buckle reproducing the emblematic oval of the Mellerio Cut.
