Dutch lifestyle brand Stoov successfully provides comforting, portable warmth with its innovative, cordless heated cushions and blankets. The comfortable heated seat cushion One is perfect as a chair pad for in- or outdoor use and makes cold seats a thing of the past for good. As characteristic for Stoov, the portable heated seat cushion has a 100% safe, certified infrared technology with integrated overheating protection and automatic switch-off, which allows the individual adjustment of the heat level through three temperature levels and thus provides hours of cozy warmth. With its classic size of 40x40 cm, it fits all standard chairs and is wonderfully suitable for outdoor events of all kinds or as a seat heater in an oldtimer or on a boat and can also be easily carried in your luggage when traveling. One is the all-round seat heater for a pleasant, warm seat with comfortable padding.

Indoors or outdoors warmth and comfort

The design heated seat cushion can be used anywhere thanks to the two fabric variants Woolly for indoor and Outdoor for outside. The Woolly cover is as soft as a cuddly teddy bear and is made of recyclable synthetic fibers, making it durable, lint-free and easy to clean. Outdoor is a synthetic olefin fiber fabric which is water- and dirt- repellent plus UV resistant. Outdoor is durable and sturdy but feels cozy and snugly all the same.

Stoov is aware of its responsibility and has set itself the goal of making a valuable contribution to sustainable development. Fundamentals such as responsible production processes, ethical choice of materials and socially responsible working conditions are firmly anchored in the company's philosophy - and new, sustainable measures are constantly being developed.
