OUR MISSION

To reduce waste and carbon emissions by offering premium recycled and natural content reusable products that are ultra-convenient to use and are built-to-last, all while educating and empowering the next generation to sustain their natural world.

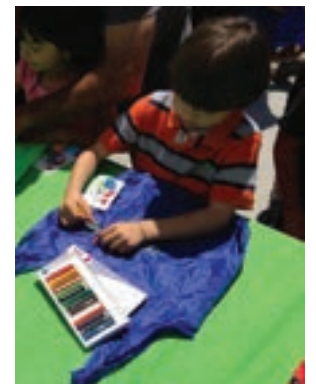

OUR INVESTMENT IN THE PLANET

Going above and beyond to help sustain our planet is what drives us each day. From using 100% recycled and/or natural materials, to double-stitching our fabric products, to being part of the BCorp community, to having a zero waste office and offset our carbon usage, our founder and team felt the urgency of climate change, and wanted to help us all with convenient and durable reusable solutions. On top of that, the team believes in the power of a triple bottom line business, focusing equally on giving back, supporting people and the planet, and building a company - to affect change. Bagito is proud to commit to helping others live more sustainably and invest above and beyond in our planet.

We believe in the importance of the next generation learning about climate change, and being empowered to take actions. Each Bagito product supports K-12 environmental literacy, in the US and abroad, through a donation to our sister non-profit. We hope you are as inspired as we are to make small changes in your daily life to better support a healthy planet for future generations.
