LIGHTNESS OF LINE. This year, the 60th edition of the Salone del Mobile spilled out beyond the Rho Fiera exhibition centre, taking over the entire city of Milan and its outskirts with some spectacular installations. Hermès returned to La Pelota Jai Alai exhibition space in Brera - the city’s famous artists’ district - with four light installations in shapes reminiscent of Milan’s water towers. Showcasing the new Hermès home collection that’s dedicated to lightness, the huge wooden structures were wrapped in translucent coloured paper, and radiated light, making them appear delicate despite their monumental proportions. hermes.com
ARCO RE-IMAGINED BY FLOS Designed by Achille and Pier Giacomo Castiglioni in 1962, and manufactured by Merano-based lighting company Flos, the iconic Arco floor lamp celebrates its 60th birthday with a special limited edition. Called the Arco K, it features a base of lead-free crystal that reveals the lamp’s mechanics and clarifies the principles of its operation. Only 2,022 numbered examples were made; these are only available online. flos.com

TUBES RADIATORI & LUDOVICA + ROBERTO PALOMBA Designed by Ludovica + Roberto Palomba, these wall-mounted radiators (below left) are made of lightweight aluminium, and are only 38mm thick. Although the range is called Square, they are available in rectangular or square shapes, and in a range of colours and dimensions. tubesradiatori.com

MAISON MATISSE & FORMAFANTASMA French design brand Maison Matisse, founded by artist Henri Matisse’s fourth-generation descendant, has collaborated with Milanese design studio Formafantasma to create Fold (below right) - a series of lamps, pendants and wall-mounted lights inspired by the paper cutouts that Matisse produced later in his life. They are manufactured from metal and paper. maison-matisse.com
