About RAW

RAW's mission is to support artisans - genuine vigneronns who are deeply committed to sustainable and ethical farming practices. Rather than referring to them as winemakers, we prefer to use the term vigneronns, as they are the people who nurture the grapes from vine to bottle. Our mission is to revolutionize the world of wine by establishing a direct channel between vintners and their audiences on a global scale. Whether it's sommeliers, importers, distributors, retailers, journalists, or simply wine enthusiasts, our platform offers access to a wealth of knowledge, ranging from detailed information on individual cuvées to vineyard-specific viticultural practices, as well as the historical and regional context in which each wine is produced. Our approach empowers the wine community to discover and appreciate the unique qualities of each wine, as they hear about it firsthand from the winemakers themselves.

We are not just looking for wines that are organic, biodynamic, or low-intervention, but rather, wines that are genuinely authentic - those that are not only delicious but also fuel conversations, excite the senses and soul, and are simply enjoyable to drink.

We hope you find as much excitement in our wines as we do.

MEET THE VIGNERONS: CON-GREG GRIGORIOU (DELINQUENTE)

Con-Greg Grigoriou started putting Riverland, South Australia on the map with Italian grape varieties that weren't popular in the country before that. Riverland is a hot inland region which was well-known for bulk wine before Con-Greg and a few other vigneron started producing wine here.

Besides the exciting flavors, his wines stand out by quirky labels and names. Con-Greg's goal is to make approachable wines for everyone that wants to push their boat out into low-intervention wine. Nobody puts under-the-radar Italian varieties on the Aussie map quite like monsieur Grigoriou, and we are all the better for it.

“My debut vintage began with just two types of wine, leaving little space to screw up. I chose to work with Vermentino and Montepulciano. Despite learning a great deal from my fellow winemakers, the initial batches turned out to be overly extracted and too ripe. That's the fascinating aspect of wine - you only get one opportunity each year to make it. The accent is bigger on natural wine where nothing is added. Of course, each vintage brings its own set of varying conditions, but my approach remains consistent throughout and today I get results that I'm happy with.”

For the month of April we are offering Delinquent's Freshly Pressed Pack at 20% off (UP $273, NOW $218). Includes: Amaya 2023, Tuff Nutt 2023, Screaming Betty 2023, Jaybird 2023, Pretty Boy 2023, Roxanne the Razor 2023.

Jérôme Bourgeois-Diaz is a fourth generation vigneron, but the first of his family to produce his own Champagne. Despite his deep family roots, Jérôme was not always working the vines. He enrolled to study sales management before pursuing a career in industrial sales. As fate would have it, Jérôme soon got bored and craved being close to nature. Thus in 2000, he decided to return to Crouettes-sur-Marne and signed up for a one-year grape growing and winemaking course in Avize, before joining the family estate.

Alessandro is quite experienced in winemaking, both in Italy and across Europe, attaining a degree in viticulture and oenology as well. His philosophy is simple - he believes in making wine with just grapes, nothing else. It's not just for ethical reasons, but Alessandro is convinced that pure wine, without any additives, tastes better. He follows the same idea in farming too.

He was born to a viticulture family based in Baix Penedès, where they worked 22 ha of vineyards, selling the fruit to large wineries in the area. By the time he was nine years old, Salva already knew how to drive a tractor and at 16 he made his first wine. His creative path is devoted to producing pure integral wines (each grape variety is approached separately) - pureness upon pureness, with the lowest intervention and the highest respect for nature.

PRODUCTION

30.000 bottles

Since its establishment, Papari Valley has remained a family-owned farm, marking its entry into the commercial wine scene with the debut of its initial vintage in 2015. Employing the Kakhetian winemaking approach, the winery crafts estate-grown and bottled wines, utilizing natural yeast fermentation and qvevris for aging. With a collection of 21 qvevris, Papari Valley is committed to discovering the optimal fusion of traditional Georgian qvevri practices and contemporary winemaking methods.

If you think of how far winemaking has come, it's truly fascinating to be able to drink wines from countries that have been producing wine for 8000 years and from those that just started 10 years ago. If you live in a place that's considered a 'strong market', you literally have endless access to all these wines. It'd be a shame not to use it in your advantage. Haruyuki Yano - Haru moved to Yamagata from Kobe with no experience in the wine industry just to roll the dice on the potential of Japanese wine. We're glad he did.

In the heart of the Yunnan region lies Muxin. Muxin, a name inspired by the famous writer Mu Xin, stands as a testament to the virtues of peace and serenity, those deeply admired by Mu Chao, the winery's founder. Trained in Burgundy and holding a profound admiration for lighter styles of wine, Mu Chao's philosophy resonates through every aspect of Muxin's operation. Muxin's closest neighbour, Ao Yun, shares the landscape of Yunnan, a remarkable wine-producing region

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

ORDERS

Why can't I find a wine that was on the list last month?

RAW is ever-changing. Certain producers that we work with have limited yearly allocation and as such our list is always evolving. Of course, if there's a wine you really want to re-order, get in touch with us and we'll see what we can do!

Do I receive an order confirmation?

Yes. Once you place an order with us (either online or through Whatsapp), you will receive an email confirmation of the order.

What are your methods of payment?

For online orders we offer payment via Google Pay and Apple Pay. For orders through email or Whatsapp, payment can be made via bank transfer, FavePay, PayNow or credit card.

Can I include a gift card/message with my order?

Yes, we offer a handwritten gift message with your order. Simply let us know what your message should say and we'll make sure the receiver gets it.
