TURN YOUR Jo[URN]ey URN INTO A BUCKET LIST MAKER

Every time you think of a goal or dream to do before you kick the bucket....write it on a slip of paper and place it in your urn. Feeling adventurous? Do a random draw.

PAY IT FORWARD! FUNERAL FUND

If the gift does it's job (you score points for an original gift idea & it spurs death positivity convos)...but it just isn't for them...they can donate it to our Funeral Fund to give more meaningful funerals to those in financial need.

Think flowers to virtual memorials.

What are Death Positive Perks?

these are just a few!

Find Your Purpose & handle life's challenges better - contemplating death reminds us life is finite. That helps you care about what really matters & to clear the noise to focus on what would truly make you happy.

Save Money - pre-planning helps you leave this world in a more affordable way. Too often people throw money at a funeral when they're grieving & too emotional to question costs.

Make Environmentally Conscious Choices - there are all kinds of new & emerging options like Aquamation, a water-based cremation.

Personalize Death - why shouldn't your death be tailored to your personality and incorporate rituals and ceremony that have meaning to you - but might break tradition.

Grieve Better - removes barriers around a healthier grief, gives you access to new forms of support, and changes the rules to grieve however the heck you want to!

Fears & Anxieties Decrease - a positive attitude on mortality liberates you from anxiety around your own death so you can make the most of life.

Talk Death to Me

Many arrive at death having never made their views and wishes known. They wind up dying in a manner they wouldn't have chosen, maybe a cold hospital room instead of home surrounded by their loved ones. Do you know 75% of people would like to die at home but only 25% actually do.

This often leaves their family & friends feeling guilty and uncertain, with the vague feeling that things should've been done different. Trouble is that talking about their end-of-life wishes beforehand is hard if death talk is taboo. Check out our blog to learn more on how this is changing!

Western culture has become squeamish about talking about death - and that hurts us. That's changing! That's what being Death Positive is all about.

It's a new appreciation of how conversations around mortality helps us better appreciate life, grieve better, find our purpose, not sweat the small things - and make death more positive.

We're living in an era of death doulas (yes, that's a thing) to death retreats. The app WeCroak sends out texts like "Remember, you're going to die!" based on Buddhist beliefs to be a truly happy person, one must contemplate death 5 x daily. Not to be morbid, rather it's to remember to care about the things that really matter!

What Does "Death Positive" Mean?

To be Death Positive is an attitude accepting death as a natural part of life (death and taxes!) instead of treating it as taboo or something awkward to be hidden.

Having blunt conversations on the process of dying, options for burial or cremation and funerals (or fun-erals) and celebrations of life, end of life planning including your will and all the adulting things.

Talking about death should be normal and it's healthy. North America is one of the most death illiterate communities in the world. And that's hurting us.

What Death Positivity is Not

Being Death Positive is not glorifying or trivializing death. It does not mean you consider death a happy thing. Just that you make it not creepy and less scary.
