Introducing The World's First Australian Silk Skincare Routine

Not only is Seresilk a world-first Australian silk product, but it is also completely cruelty-free[^] - following Ahimsa rearing practices.

With research^{^^} estimating that women use 515 individual chemicals on their skin daily, Seresilk was developed out of a desire to create a simple routine that harnesses silk's natural healing properties which help moisturise, hydrate and repair the skin. Seresilk lets its silk shine in all formulations, using only 24 ingredients across a 4-step night routine.

All Seresilk formulations use cruelty-free Ahimsa Silk so you can enjoy using silk in its most natural form. Rich in amino acids and soft in texture, silk is superior in the world of skincare.

DID YOU KNOW?

Popularised by Gandhi and unlike conventional silk, where silkworms are sacrificed for their cocoons, Ahimsa silk allows nature's cycle to unfold harmoniously.

The silkworms are given the freedom to complete their metamorphosis, emerging as beautiful silk-moths, while their abandoned cocoons become the source of this extraordinary fibre.

The secret to Seresilk is in the name... silk

For Skin As Smooth As... Well, You Know

Silk has been used in skincare for close to 5,000 years while the ladies working on Chinese silkworms farms are famed for having the softest hands in the world...

The 100% Pure Silk Cocoon is an exfoliator like no other. Simply soak it in water, cleanse, and within minutes, the natural cocoon is ready to be gently applied in circular motions across the cheeks, forehead, and décolletage.

As the exfoliator effortlessly glides over your skin, it delicately buffs away impurities, reducing inflammation and revitalising your complexion.

The natural silk composition works to diminish the appearance of wrinkles and fine lines, boost collagen production, and enhance skin elasticity.

Unravelling The Silk Secret

The Silkworm undergoes a life cycle that spans 6-8 weeks. Rearing is influenced by factors such as temperature, humidity, and exposure to sunlight.

Over the course of its life as a larva, the silkworm will multiply x10,000 its initial size - equivalent to a newborn reaching close to 40,000kg in just one month!

As the time comes for it to spin its cocoon, the silkworm oozes a tiny drop of silk for anchoring and draws a continuous filament of silk by swinging its head to-and-fro, taking up to 72 hours. The result is a perfectly ovate cocoon with a single strand of silk measuring up to 1 kilometre long!

In traditional sericulture, silk cocoons are boiled 8 days after they are spun, killing the pupae inside and allowing the 1,000m long thread to unravel for a cleaner spinning process.

After 10-14 days of development inside the cocoon, the Silk Moth emerges. The moth's brief life of 5-10 days is marked by the pursuit of a mate, mating, laying 300-500 eggs.

It is after this stage that we collect the "waste" silk cocoons and subject to hydrolysis for inclusion across our cruelty-free silk skincare formulations - unlike traditional sericulture.

The Power of Silk

You've heard of silk pillowcases... but have you heard of silk in skincare?

All proteins are made of amino acids. Silk has 18 amino acids - remarkable given there are only 20 amino acids in the human body.

80% of the total is made up from three: alanine, glycine and serine.

Not only do silk amino acids support the skin, but its retaining properties let other actives do a great job... meaning only a small amount of silk is needed in each formulation.

That is why Seresilk formulations also include; vitamin A, vitamin E, hyaluronic acid, glycerin & squalene.

The silk fibroin - which gives silk its strength - mimics the body's "natural moisturising factor" (NMF), which improves hydration and reduces "trans-epidermal water loss" (TEWL).

Together, this protects skin from the effects of pollution and scoops up free radicals thanks to its antioxidant properties.

BENEFITS OF SILK SKINCARE

- Rich protein content boosts collagen production
 - Rejuvenates, plumps and smooths skin
 - High moisture content, rehydrating skin
- Protects and supports skin's barrier function
 - Reduces fine lines and wrinkles
- Encourages skin cell regeneration for increased skin firmness
 - Repairs damaged skin

THE seresilk STORY

From Curiosity Of Silk To Anti-Ageing Skincare Remedy

Seresilk was launched in 2023 by Taylor Battistella.

Battistella has worked with silk since age 12, where he started his first business selling Silkworms to schools and retail customers across Australia.

Uncovering the rich history and anti-ageing properties of silk, Battistella decided to bring his expertise to the skincare industry.

Born was Seresilk. As a nod to historic roots, the name 'Seres' was chosen. Translating to 'land of silk', this describes Ancient China where silk was first discovered.

Battistella's goal is to create demand for Australian silk and fuel the growth of a new industry, by making the most of a resource which has until now gone to waste.

Committed To Skincare With Minimal Impact

Seresilk formulations are approved as cruelty free under the Leaping Bunny Programme using ahimsa silk that allows the silk-moth to naturally emerge from its cocoon and peacefully continue its life-cycle.

The disposed silk cocoon is captured and hydrolysed. The hydrolysis process involves breaking down the larger silk protein molecules into smaller components using water or an aqueous solution. The end result is a beautiful form of golden, liquid silk used in all Seresilk formulations.

Seresilk recognises its goal of creating new Australian industry is ambitious so has partnered with three charities that are already achieving amazing results in Australia to help incite powerful change today

Don't Just Take Our Word For It...

Jane Carroll
Customer

Seresilk is amazing! We all know stress shows on our skin but over the last few nights I have spoilt my face with the serum and night cream. Truly my skin feels like silk! What a fantastic product! I am hooked!

Olivia May Influencer

As the weather starts to get cooler and my skin becomes drier, I've been trying to find a good skincare routine that I can stick to for the whole year. I'm so excited to have got my hands on Seresilk.

Lisa Ashmore
Wholesaler

We are very excited to have the Seresilk products on our front counter. Customers who want a beautiful, natural and silk skincare range shouldn't look any further than Seresilk.

Sera Bozza
News Corp Australia

It's been a while since I've used a skincare product that is as innovative and beautiful as it is simply different and fun... perfect for sensitive skin girls!

Kate Squires
Creator

This serum is super hydrating for the skin and really helps with dehydration. The finish is SUPER glowy, would love this formula in a day serum without the Vit A. Very lightweight on the skin.

Georgia Honan
Customer

The texture, smell, look and feel are spot on for my dry skin type. I am super fussy about the cleaners I use but this might just be the best one I've ever used.

Liz Bond
Lifestyle Writer

I've really loved Seresilk so much that I'm now conserving my products for an upcoming international trip!

Mark Fletcher
Market Researcher

Seresilk skincare is a brilliant product range and Taylor's story is a great example of Aussie innovation and determination.

Gabriella Whittaker
Creator

Incredible products. Unique and amazing branding. These are one-of-a-kind products and so incredibly sustainable and Australian made: the owner is passionate and communicates well. Love this brand!
