

Wonderful things happen when a dog greets us
with unbridled enthusiasm and joy,
Or when a cat allows our lap to be a pillow for its
royal-self and purrs contentment as reward.
Each lets us experience the rare gift of unreserved and undeserved love.

But when we love them in return something
healing happens to our spirit.
Our hearts learn to set love free
and let it flow unobstructed outward.

And when a pet is gone,
we feel hollow and empty inside.
The loss of a companion and friend
leaves a hole in our hearts.
