How to Become an Avaulte Artist

Letter from Founder, Lisa Camargo

Having been in the corporate world for years, I left it all to start anew as an artist. It all began when I attended RISD, Rhode Island's School of Design, and took design & visual art classes. As I observed and listened to other artists, my curiosity peaked and I needed to know more. I recall turning to an artist next to me and asking him/her, "What are your plans with your art?" "Where do you sell your work?" "How do you market yourself as an artist?" Blank responses to my questions planted seeds in my mind to find business solutions for artists and connect the emotions and inspirations of artists' work to others.

It was in those years of taking classes, connecting with other artists, and developing myself as an artist, that led me to understand the level of support and resources needed to strive and establish one's self in the art industry.

Once I felt comfortable in my foundation as an artist, I moved from the east coast to the west coast. With this move, the vision of Avaulte began to take shape. As I began a life here on the west coast, I met new artists, learned how things work in the industry on this coast, and felt an appetite to build an artists' hub. This energy poured into forming solutions to best suit the artist's needs and connecting that inspiration with new buyers.

Welcome to Avaulte.  Lisa Camargo, Founder of Avaulte
