Pepperberry, Native Pepperleaf, Mountain

Both the berries and leaves are used from this Australian Native shrub. Pepperberries are dark blue in colour and have an intensely strong pepper bite, that is accompanied by a mineral-like aftertaste that lingers and builds in heat over a period of about five minutes after consumption. Use with care, about one tenth the amount one would use of conventional pepper. The pepperleaf is much milder and gives a pleasant, Australian outback taste to food when used as a substitute for normal pepper. Sprinkle onto chicken and fish with ground lemon myrtle and a little salt.
