OUTSTANDING COMFORT BEHIND TIMELESS DESIGN

The Stefan Lounge Chair Type 300-139 was created in 1962 in Poland. It is characterized by a light and organic look that gives a distinctive identity where every detail is thought through. The upholstery is formed by loose rectangular cushions, which provide outstanding comfort. 366 Concept combines comfort with functionality, this is why the cushion covers can be easily washed or exchanged for the new ones. The Stefan Lounge Chair is an undeniable example of an exquisite beauty that carries the craftsmanship and aesthetics of Danish modernism into the contemporary interiors.

STEFAN LOUNGE CHAIR

Story behind:

The design of the Stefan Lounge Chair Type 300-139 was created in 1962. The frame of the lounge chair is made of solid oak wood, while the backrest is decorated with wooden tiers. The upholstery in this case is formed by 2 loose rectangular cushions. The Stefan Lounge Chair was a Polish export commodity and thus represented the upper class among furniture manufactured at the time. The furniture has a modernist form and a simple design, enriched by gently contoured armrests, reminiscent of classics of Danish design.
