Dear Goddess,

Travel feeds our imagination, enriches our vocabulary, validates our values and enlists our participation to protect the physical and emotional benefits that discovery yields.

As JourneyWomen, we get off the bus. We walk. We talk. We ask questions. Travel isn't about counting countries or marks on a map. Travel is an opportunity to learn from and teach one another, respecting the diversity of our human experience.

So it's no surprise that when we travel, we actively seek unique experiences that immerse us in local cultures, challenge conventional ways of thinking and allow us to go beyond what's typical and into the unexpected. Are you ready?

Featured Experiences from our Women's Travel Directory

In this special advertising feature, it gives us great pleasure to introduce you to a curated selection of unique, highly immersive tours from our Women's Travel Directory. JourneyWoman does not operate or sell tours but we do want to help other small tour businesses connect with you, as travel's most influential audience. These tours are all happening in September, so don't wait!

When you travel, we hope that you'll support a woman-owned small business, and look for the "JourneyWoman Verified" mark, which indicates the tour or retreat company has been reviewed using our specific women-friendly criteria. We also accept new listings. Contact us at info@journeywoman.com for more information.

Join Girls' Guide to Paris in Georgia in September

Save $300

Join Girls' Guide to Paris on a once-in-a-lifetime experience with a National Geographic Award Winning Photographer in Georgia (the country) during the Wine Harvest Season

September 7 - 14, 2022

Join us on a photography expedition to the country of Georgia where you'll learn tips and techniques while exploring this remarkable country with Lola Akinmade Åkerström, National Geographic photographer, author, and renowned visual storyteller.

Sitting at the crossroads of Europe and Asia, Georgia boasts an exotic, mysterious and ancient culture stretching back for millennia shaped by her geographic location along the ancient silk road. Anatolian, European, Persian, Arabian, Ottoman and Far Eastern influences have all shaped Georgia's diverse and hospitable atmosphere. Renowned for being accommodating, Georgians consider travelers to be "Gifts from the Gods". It's a unique destination for the adventurer, nature lover, history buff, and student of modern and ancient architecture.

And the foodies amongst us won't feel left out. Georgian food is incredible. Not only will you be feasting on their cuisine, but you'll learn to prepare several classic dishes paired with local artisanal wines. Georgia is the oldest wine making country in the world; Georgians have been making wine for over 8000 years with their own traditional method in egg-shaped clay jars called qvevri. Those jars are buried underground where the fermentation process happens naturally. And in September we'll experience Rtveli – the traditional wine harvest and festival where you'll literally get knee deep in the harvest process.

Join Rue Pigalle for an Artisanal Journey in Somerset & London in September

Textile Travel in England from September 20 - 30, 2022

On this two-part journey, join Isabelle Fish for a unique opportunity to discover firsthand the magic behind the irresistible objects and locations we associate with the British way of life. We meet the artists, workshops and locations that innovate while protecting and transmitting ancestral know-how, many of whom are supported and celebrated by organizations such as The Prince's Trust, The Queen's Scholarship Trust or The Royal Warrant.

From Somerset's rural setting to London's urban vitality, for 10 days our playground is a collection of workshops and studios, historical buildings and contemporary galleries, local food providers and passionate chefs, glorious gardens and rolling hills.

The pace is leisurely - it is important to take the time to discover, learn and enjoy our surroundings and the people we meet.

Join Raina Stinson's Provence Lifestyle and Photography Tour in September

Discover the hidden treasures of Provence through a slow travel and contemplative photography experience from September 1-7, 2022

This is a small group of 7 women, only 2 spots are left.

Have you ever dreamt of spending time in a centuries-old stone house in the south of France surrounded by vineyards, eating dinners by candelabra after taking in the breathtaking southern France scenery? Would you like to slow down and experience the beauty and tranquility of the authentic Provençal lifestyle, while learning a new way to experience and document your travels with fresh eyes? Then this workshop is for you!

Join American Raina Stinson for an all-inclusive itinerary that includes photography instruction (all levels welcome.) We will spend time in serene landscapes, quaint villages, enjoy beautifully prepared dinners and shopping at a famous antique market with gorgeous French linens, old candlesticks, exquisite jewelry, and other French wares.

Accommodation will be in a private country hamlet (yes, a hamlet!), surrounded by vineyards with spectacular views. It is a perfect location where you can unwind after a day's explorations in the nearby villages.

Leave a review for a tour company

We invite you to leave a review for a tour company you've travelled with on their listing page and help them improve their service to you.

Look at Laura Davis and the Writing Journey for an example, and leave your own:

Joan says: "I went to Vietnam with Laura and wow, what an unexpected delight! Well paced, kind, thoughtful, warm are the words that come to mind. The daily writing and yoga kept me grounded, while leaving ample time for the cultural experience. I would go anywhere with Laura. I trust her completely to create a memorable — unforgettable!! — experience!"
