

Trouble Viewing? Click here.

Dear Goddess,

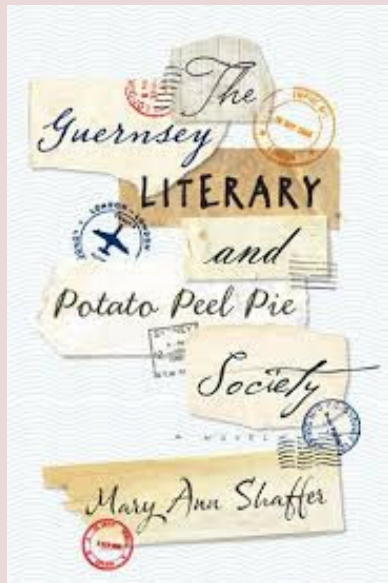

Some of you who participate in the book club know a little bit about me from the stories I've told during our discussions, but for those of you who don't, my name is Wendy Brooke.

My cat, Hepzibah, and I live in an old historic home in Montgomery Alabama. While I travel for work in the US, I have a trip planned for early October to England where I'll be taking a course in Osteology or the Archaeology of bones. Archaeology is one of my passions and in my free time you'll find me doing volunteer work at various Archeological sites throughout the world. In the past, I've been one of those people in the ditches digging but age and bad knees have stopped me from that type of the task and now I'm more inclined to be doing lab work. For me there is something very exciting about holding a piece of pottery that's 2,000 years old.

Since I was a young girl, I've used books as a way to understand the world and to go places both in place and time that I have would not have been able to except through reading. I'm a reader, I love to read. I'm looking forward to our October book selection, The Guernsey Literary and Potato Peel Pie Society. I hope to see many of you at the book club on Wednesday, October 19, when we discuss our thoughts about the people of Guernsey during the German Occupation of World War II.

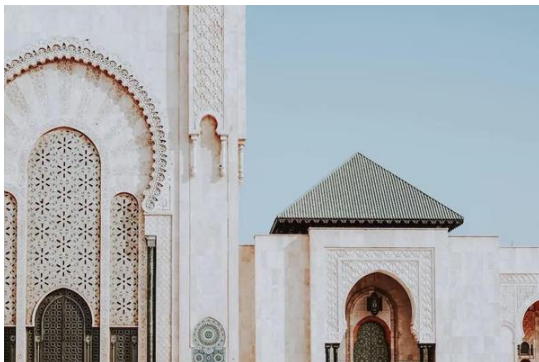

Your book club co-host,
Wendy Brooke

You can help support our Book Club: When you purchase a book using the links on our site, JourneyWoman receives a small commission from the bookseller. This is one of our ways you can help us maintain our beautiful website and editorial content.

October Book of the Month:
The Guernsey Literary and Potato Peel Pie Society by Mary Ann Shaffer

Sign up for the book club here

Watch Our September Book Club on Morocco "The Diver's Clothes Lie Empty"

Read More

Spark Your Curiosity About South America With These 10 Books

Read More

Order our November Book Now:
"Tell Them My Name" by Laura
Maya, set in Nepal

Pictured: Carolyn with Laura Maya, author of Tell Them My Name, in Dubrovnik last week

Would you like to participate as an expert or speaker in our Book Club? Email Carolyn at editor@journeywoman.com. Have a book to suggest? Send it in here.

TOUR THE UNITED KINGDOM DIFFERENTLY

TRAFALGAR

LEARN MORE

Tales of a Female Nomad by Rita Golden Gelman

Read More

23 Women Whose Memoirs
Will Inspire Your Next
Journey

Read More