For an athlete, one of the main advantages of watermelon is the amino acid citrulline, which enters the body, turns into arginine. Arginine produces nitric oxide, it helps pump muscles with blood, saturating them with oxygen, hormones and nutrients, from which they become larger and stronger. The largest amount of citrulline is found in the white solid pulp under the crust. In the red flesh of watermelon, it is also present, but to a lesser extent.????Red pulp contains a lot of lycopene, even more than tomatoes. Lycopene is an antioxidant that prevents many oncological diseases and contributes to the good functioning of the heart. To live up to 100 years and for all 100????, you must include a watermelon in your diet.
