We create responsibly produced textiles which combine timeless Nordic design with exquisite craftsmanship.

Our story is one of ethics, integrity and respect. It began in 2002, when we learned about the qualities of alpaca wool during a backpacking trip to Peru. Struck by its softness and durability, we set about blending elegant, pared-back aesthetics with centuries-old Peruvian weaving traditions, forging strong relationships with artisans, community projects and mills. A year later ELVANG was born, becoming the first company to introduce throws made of alpaca wool to Scandinavia.

Today, our collections are sold in numerous countries worldwide, but our social and environmental commitment remains unchanged. Making responsible choices lies at the heart of everything we do, from securing better pay for alpaca shepherds and employee benefits for weavers to reducing transport emissions, recycling packaging and repurposing fibres. This has led to the highest possible level of recognition within the World Fair Trade Organization (WFTO) as a Guaranteed Member and participation in the UN Global Compact Initiative, ensuring that our supply chains and business model put people, the planet and animals first.

The Floor Runner and Seat Pad Collections

ELVANG's floor runner and seat pad collections are a harmonious blend of elegance and functionality.

Walnut & Hazelnut floor runners

Our Walnut & Hazelnut floor runners are handmade in Portugal and produced of 100% upcycled fibres / surpluses of the textile industry. The rugs are handmade in the North of Portugal within a family business using a traditional wooden loom. No electricity is involved - only pure muscles' sparks! The rug is suitable as a bathmat, a kitchen rug or in any other room for cosiness and decoration.

Consistent with our responsible approach to production the rug is made of 100% textile waste from the textile industry. The rug being made from upcycled material means that the composition will vary between a mix of cotton, polyester and viscose always woven together with jute.
