Our palette is a carefully curated selection of 144 colours, designed and flowed for all the colours to work intrinsically with each other.

With considerations to the traditional colour wheel and the principles of colour psychology, we have crafted the colours to work complementary, analogously, in both tetrad and triad formations and even in a monochromatic sense. We believe there is no colour scheme that cannot be served through this palette; it can create drama, beauty and all the emotions you wish to evoke in any project.

Each designer has inherently influenced and embodied their own colour, but also inspired other colours and tones throughout, giving this palette a unique and embedded sense of art, history and its origins.

The names elicit feelings and thoughts of being Irish, of living and breathing Ireland as the homeland and the muse for a community of artists – giving more than a collection of colours but a complete work of art that is made by Ireland.

EXPERIENCE / THE DIFFERENCE

The Centre of European Norms (CEN) have awarded Curator Enhanced Matt + Subtle Sheen the coveted EN13300 rating as premium quality paints.

Section 5.4 Wet Scrub resistance Class 1-5:

Both Curator Enhanced Matt and Subtle Sheen are Classified “Class1”.

Section 5.5 Contrast Ratio (Opacity) Class1-4:

Both Curator Enhanced Matt and Subtle Sheen are Classified “Class1” at specified spreading rate of 7m2/L.

The real difference between interior paints is in Section 5.5 and most especially Section 5.4. The wet scrub resistance (5.4) is effectively the resistance of a paint to repeated cleaning. Wet scrub resistance is the best measure of a paint's durability and ease of cleaning and stain removal. In Europe professional specifiers, in situations where they are seeking that higher performance paint, typically specify Class 1.

Our independent (Dublin Institute of Technology) certificates for Curator confirming the above results are available upon request.
