QUICK REACTIONS:
WHAT TO DO IN THE EVENT
OF HEAT STRESS

THE HOURS MATTER

The most dangerous heat hours are between 11 am - 5 pm. Schedule frequent rest breaks during this time to ensure you don't overheat.

KNOW THE SYMPTOMS

Be aware of the signs and symptoms of heat-induced illnesses. Heat causes more deaths than any other weather-related hazards.

DRINK MORE WATER

Drinking about 1 cup of water every 15 minutes is recommended to prevent heat stress or illness. The key is to drink water before you feel thirsty.

THE RIGHT PPE

Choose work wear that is moisture-wicking and breathable. The addition of cooling products can help regulate your body temperature.
