Key Ingredients:

Regen Labs Liquid FaceLift has a combination of ingredients designed to give you radiant skin at any age. The key ingredients within Regen Labs Liquid FaceLift including our Quad PepTITE blend.

Studies have shown our Quad PepTITE formula shares similar properties to botulinum toxin such that it targets wrinkles in the forehead and around the eyes. Studies have also shown it is superior to oil-rich products because it is better able to lock in moisture which fills wrinkles with more moisturized and plumper tissues.

Our Quad PepTITE formula contains special peptides that relax muscles to reduce fine lines and wrinkles in the skin. In controlled studies, topical peptides such as Pentapeptide 18 have been proven to be effective in anti-aging capabilities.

I J MEW works as a communication vehicle among genes.. In studies, GHK-CU has demonstrated that it can improve skin elasticity, skin density, and skin clarity. It can also help reduce fine lines and wrinkles, photo damage from the sun, hyperpigmentation, and increase keratinocyte proliferation which is essential to the healing process of any damaged skin tissue.*

Our Quad PepTITE blend heals the skin in the same way it builds healthy muscle tissue. It does this by producing an angiogenic effect which creates new blood vessels and increases blood flow to injured parts of the skin. As a result, studies show that, the proprietary formula plays a strong role in helping to accelerate epidermal healing.

In addition to the key ingredients, Regen Labs Liquid Face Lift also contains two more powerful ingredients: Palmitoyl Tripeptide-1 and Niacinamide.

Palmitoyl Tripeptide-1 histologically demonstrated an almost perfect healing exhibited by increased re-epithelialization, enhanced collagen deposition, and diminished scar formation compared to the controls.

Niacinamide is a water-soluble form of Vitamin B3 that is easily absorbed into the skin. Niacinamide builds proteins into the skin and seals in the skin moisture. Data analysis shows that Niacinamide reduces fine lines and wrinkles, hyperpigmentation, and improves skin elasticity. This leads to lower inflammation, tighter pores, and fuller facial tissue.
