Soft illustrated maps for urban jungles

What is the heart of a town?
The soul of a town? Why is a town said to be beautiful, or said to be ugly? What's beautiful and what's ugly in a town? How do you get to know a town? How do you get to know your town?

Georges Perec

These illustrated maps belong to the series of the Crumpled City™ Family, the unique and indestructible maps that won't need to get folded.

Their special material make these maps just perfect for the Juniors: they're soft, extremely light, ultra resistant and 100% waterproof. They can be handed roughly as well as crumpled up into a ball and chucked away in a rucksack, without the worry of folding them.

Crumpled City™ Junior Maps come with ingenious illustrations and expressionistic colors making them easy to look up as well as captivating to the eyes of the youngsters.

Rich in information: each map features several not-to-be-missed Junior locations. Such “unmissable” top places were selected thanks to the help of “special on location correspondents” who have turned these maps into up-to-date tools that make traveling come alive.

Last but not least, they play an educational role too, where the learning process takes place by means of finding one’s way in a foreign city, whilst autonomously developing cognitive abilities.
