

carved & stamped:

THE PROCESS OF BLOCK PRINT

A centuries-old technique, the block print process begins with a relief pattern carved into blocks of wood. Depending on the detail and intricacy of the design, the carving of the wooden block can take anywhere from hours to weeks to complete. The block is then covered with ink and meticulously stamped across the surface of the textile.