Notes on these Ranks:

Single Bar ranks are sector ranks under the control of the sector leader Moffs, not under direct control of Coruscant. These were eliminated in the reorganization after the Battle of Yavin Double Bar ranks are galactic wide ranks under direct control of Coruscant. These individuals have authority that transcends sector to sector or are in fleets that move from sector to sector.

Number of squared determine rank. Color denotes job task
Navy is blue, Army is red, Research is Amber, the color of the first tile on the left determines service branch

Titles such as Director, Inspector General, Chief, Agent and Lord are not military ranks, but can be used while instilled in certain positions.

Black uniforms have worn both single and double bar ranks of all colors, up to and including grand moff ranks (GM Trachta).

Green uniforms have worn both single and double bar ranks of all colors.

ISB officers have worn both single and double bar ranks, but only have been seen with combinations of blue and red tiles. No amber tiles have been observed being worn by them.

Sector and fleet hat and collar pins were discontinued as a practice prior to the events of Rogue One.

Grand Admiral (General) ranks have been worn on green uniforms (Tagge, Zinji) and the white uniforms of Imperial Warlords (Sloane, Thrawn) fields in this color represent ranks that have been seen on screen, but the rank name comes from 3rd party sources that do not conform to any system

Most ranks found are traditional Sector naval and army ranks. Research Army and Research Navy are ranks for personell working on military projects. Operations Navy and Operations Army are officers that put research into practice and provide security for testing.
