5. WARRANTIES

5.1. Warranty.

InsideOpt warrants for a period of sixty (60) days after the Effective Date of this Agreement that the Product will perform substantially in accordance with the documentation. InsideOpt does not warrant that the Product will be Error-free in all circumstances. InsideOpt commercial licenses can be used for development or deployment (sometimes called "run-time"), or both. It is permissible to use an InsideOpt commercial license for the development of an application and then use that same license to deploy the application, subject only to the specific machine and usage-level limitations and restrictions of the particular Product License You have purchased. Depending on the license purchased, use the Product may be restricted to one specific application.

In particular, making the Product available over the Internet or similar networking technology to others who are not Your employees ("Hosting") is forbidden except Hosting that otherwise respects the limitations of the Product License is permitted if the Product is embedded in and only accessible through an application developed by You that adds significant additional functionality and does not allow Your end user to formulate and solve arbitrary optimization models.

1. Commercial Product License Options

a. Single-Machine License

This license is locked to a particular physical machine. The license specifies the maximum number of cores (threads) that can be utilized by that use. This license can run on machines with more cores than issued with/for the license. The number of simultaneous users and uses is unlimited.

b. Named-User, Single-Machine License

This license is for a single specific person such as a software developer or analyst. Sharing, transferring, assigning or use of this license by anyone other than the named user is expressly prohibited, nor can the license be used for a shared process or any kind of batch process or background service.
