

KatesNumbers

FASHION, LIFESTYLE, BEAUTY, & MARRIAGE

LIFESTYLE

BABY BOY NURSERY REVEAL

May 23, 2018

ABOUT ME

KATE

I am a lover of fashion, beauty, and living life to its fullest. I'm a newlywed in my late twenties and my husband and I just recently had our beautiful baby boy! Being real and making people laugh is one of my top priorities in life, aside from eating brown sugar Poptarts and drinking Diet Coke.

It's HERE! Baby boy's nursery reveal is finally ready to share. It feels like we've been dreaming, creating, and putting together his nursery decades. We're so excited to finally have it complete and ready for little Rhett to enjoy! I can't wait to share with you all the amazing little trinkets, details, and ideas we've put into his room!

We went back and forth with the theme idea for days before finally deciding on stars/clouds . There are so many cute ideas out there, but we wanted to go with something as unique as possible. We loved the idea of clouds/stars/nature because it's adventurous and of course SO CUTE!

We went with grays, blues, and golds as the bold colors in the room. We love this room because it gets so much light and seriously just makes our hearts so full.

I tried to link as many of the products as I could below! Some products in this post were sent to me in exchange for an authentic review. If the product was sent to me, I put a * next to the name of the product. Please know all opinions are 100 percent authentic and my own. Please also know that there were plenty of products that I sent back to companies during the nursery decor period because they were not what we were looking for or not up to standards. You know I keep it REAL with you all. 😊

Our nursery glider is from Delta Children. We sat in so many chairs at the baby stores and I never really fell in love with any of them. When we sat in this chair, we knew it was going to go great in Rhett's room. It is the perfect color and so so comfy, which is necessary when you're rocking that precious little babe to sleep. The Livesmart fabric is perfect for me because it can easily be cleaned. WONDERFUL for when I spill my Diet Coke all over it. I already know that will happen at least once...probably ten times, haha! The chair is super comfy and quiet as you swivel around. I don't know about you, but when I sit on some of those swivel chairs for more than a few minutes, I get super nauseous. Blah! I have bounced, spun, and chilled in this chair for hours already and haven't had that sick feeling at all. If you're looking for a nursery chair, this one is uh-maze-ing!

*Nursery Glider

