The Best Stroller for Every Need (and Budget)

4. THE BEST COMPACT STROLLER: DELTA CHILDREN'S CLUTCH STROLLER

What the Clutch stroller lacks in plushness, it makes up for in convenience: It folds up smaller than a Trader Joe's grocery bag. And, at less than 12 pounds, it's easy to pick up and put away one-handed, yet it still feels sturdy as you push it down the sidewalk. Our editors loved that despite its small size, it still has enough storage space underneath to stow a diaper bag, though it may be worth buying a caddy for the handlebars to hold your phone, keys and cold brew.

What parents say: "I can't get over how easily this little stroller folds up—and how little space it takes up in my trunk. I used to constantly forget to bring a stroller, because I hated it taking up my whole trunk. The Clutch takes up a tiny corner, so it's always at the ready. And it's much sturdier than other compact strollers, like those $25 fold-up ones you find in stores. Overall, I'd say it's especially great for grandparents, who may need a stroller from time to time but don't want a ton of baby gear taking up space in their homes."
