Best Nursery Furniture Sets

One of the most exciting parts about having a baby (other than meeting your new cutie, of course) is decorating the nursery. Although finding the right items can be a challenge — picking out a crib, changing table and everything else you need takes time — setting up baby's room lets parents-to-be "nest" and prepare for their little one's arrival.

Of course, you can piece together your nursery furniture over time, buying one item here and another there. However, purchasing furniture in a set has its benefits. It's efficient, since you can buy everything you need all in one place and be done. Plus, there are no worries about not being able to find something in the same color or style to match what you've already bought. Purchasing a nursery furniture set can also be less expensive than buying the items separately.

What to consider when shopping for a nursery furniture set

- Safety. Choose a set that meets the minimum government safety standards developed by the Consumer Products Safety Commission (CPSC) and the American Society for Testing and Materials International (ASTM). Even better, go for products that are certified by the Juvenile Products Manufacturers Association (JPMA). This certification means the item was tested at a certified independent facility and met the rigorous standards set by the ASTM. You should also visit the CPSC website to make sure there haven't been any recalls with the furniture set.
- Versatility. It's always a good idea to invest in furniture that will last a long time, can work with various themes or can be repurposed in different rooms of the house.
- Style. Make sure nursery furniture is comfortable and to your liking. Although the majority of the furniture will be for your baby, you'll be spending lots of time in the nursery, too.

One more safety tip: If you're buying a dresser, bookshelf, changing table or any piece that could tip unexpectedly, make sure you secure it to the wall. (Many sets are sold with anti-tip hardware, or you can buy a set separately.) It's smart to do this when you're setting up the nursery, since baby will be toddling about sooner than you think.

With that said, we looked high and low to bring you the best nursery furniture sets that will make your growing family happy.
