

Stacking D TR Floor Lamp

Rockwell Group, 2007

Stacking was designed by Rockwell Group in 2007 using the idea of modular, individually hand-blown glass cylinders in distinct combinations of colors and sizes. These glass modules are made with a traditional Murano hand-blown glass technique called incamiciato (Italian for "jacketed" or "layered"), which requires multiple layers of glass during the blowing process. This tedious handmade technique pays off brilliantly as it builds up different colors and opacities in each module. When these modules are combined (you can stack or re stack the modules in any combination you desire) they build and overlap colors and opacities, creating sophisticated atmospheric lighting. The Stacking Collection is comprised of three sets of floor lamps (Stacking B, Stacking C and Stacking D) that each have their own distinct personality.
