Schering Testoviron Depot 250 mg: Uses and Side Effects. Testoviron Depot is the androgen containing an oil-based mixture of Testosterone esters; mainly Testosterone propionate and enanthate, used in treating hypogonadism. It's administered via depot intravascular injections. These injections come in Testoviron ampules, and each ampoule contains 250mg of Testoviron Depot.

Description. testoviron is a blend of two different products, Testosterone Propionate (short ester) and Testosterone Enanthate (long ester). Background. This product is manufactured by Schering. Blended esters are the most expensive of all of the Testosterones available due to the fact that they are rare as well as in high demand.

It was under development as drug candidate for female sexual dysfunction and erectile dysfunction but clinical development ceased by 2003, and as of 2018, no product containing melanotan II was marketed and all commercial development had ceased.[1] Unlicensed, untested, or fraudulent products sold as "melanotan II" are found on the Internet, and purported to be effective as "tanning drugs", though side effects such as uneven pigmentation, new nevi (moles), and darkening or enlargement of existing moles are common and have led to medical authorities discouraging use.
