AMA's smart workplace allows experts and frontline workers to collaborate remotely via a secure software platform, perfectly tailored to each business. With seven years of proven experience in remote assistance solutions, AMA is helping medical institutions and industrial organizations of all sizes accelerate their digital transformation. AMA's XpertEye video conferencing is currently deployed in 150 countries around the world by more than 450 customers that are using it for remote maintenance, remote support, transfer and sharing of knowledge and in-field assistance.

"Through our expanding relationships with key VAR partners such as AMA, with whom we have worked with for many years, we continue to see numerous companies across a growing number of industry verticals turning to smart glasses and embracing Vuzix solutions in particular," said Paul Travers, President and CEO of Vuzix. "The proven productivity improvements and other benefits Vuzix smart glasses offer, such as a reduced carbon footprint and improved worker safety, should remain a driving force for the accelerating adoption of these products."

"Frontline workers across the world can reap the full benefit of our XpertEye remote assistance solution powered by Vuzix smart glasses. We address a myriad of use cases across verticals to help the remote worker capture and share knowledge in real-time, improve first-time fix rate, and drive operational efficiency," confirms Thomas Waendendries, VP Sales & Marketing at AMA.
