Clutter Clearing for Positive Change

The art of clearing clutter to create positive change has been utilized for centuries by many cultures. When we unclutter our homes and our lives we free up energy for living in the present. Letting go of clutter means allowing things that no longer serve us to move on. When we release clutter from our inner and outer environments we open space in our lives to receive all of the wonderful blessings that are heading our way!

The key to releasing clutter is to change our energetic relationship to it. The eight essences outlined below can help us identify any attachment we may have to our clutter, energize the releasing process, and update our relationship with the stuff we choose to keep. They may be used individually or in combination, and taken internally or made into a spray to use throughout your home and workplace.

This month we are discounting the following essences by 25%:

Black Tourmaline • Bloodstone • Devil's Club
Grass of Parnassus • Golden Corydalis • Northern Coral Root

Black Tourmaline

Black Tourmaline is our premier gem elixir for clearing. Use it to absorb any stagnant or inharmonious energies from your clutter before you start the sorting and clearing process. It is especially helpful when you are dealing with clutter you have inherited from others.

Bloodstone helps to clear emotional negativity and stagnation from our lower chakras and emotional body. Doing this will facilitate the release of our emotional attachment to things we have held on to from our distant past.

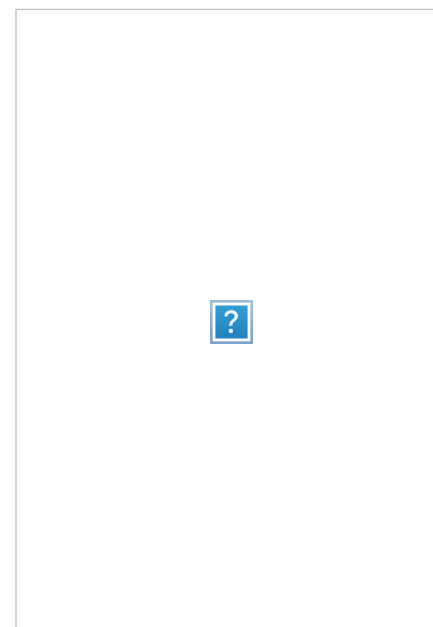

Bloodstone

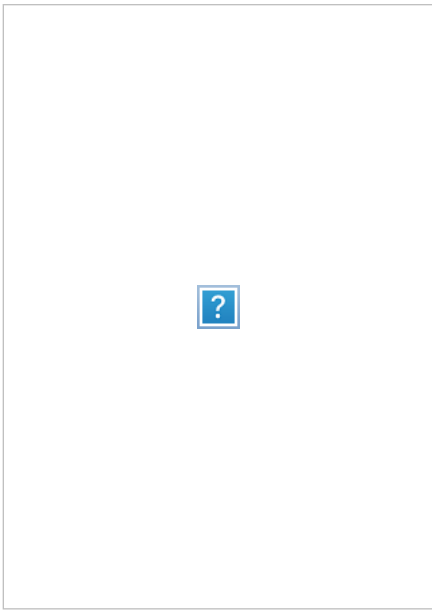

Devil's Club

Devil's Club is for when our clutter has taken over the house and we don't feel there is enough room left for us to be fully present. It can help us create an inner spaciousness that will enable us to set and maintain new boundaries with our physical surroundings. This essence is also helpful for those who keep attracting new clutter into their lives.

Use it to bless each object you are letting go of so it can easily find a new home or owner. Its a great essence to use when you want to have a successful yard or garage sale!

Golden Corydalis helps us begin the clutter clearing process with clarity of intention. Use it to help you look at your material possessions from the perspective of whether they support or hinder your life destiny and creative fulfillment. If they don't, let them go!

Northern Coral Root is an amazing orchid that can teach us how to transform and recycle the energies that no longer serve us. It can be used to release stagnant and distorted emotions, thought forms, and other energetic debris from any enclosed space, object, or piece of land.

One Sided Wintergreen helps us establish new boundaries based on our life purpose so that what we attract to us from now on will serve that instead of becoming more clutter. It can also help us create harmonious home and work environments that meet our energetic needs and are welcoming to others who are aligned with our Divine purpose.
