Wolo Media Cabinet

The Wolo Media Cabinet focuses on the beautiful grain and natural characteristics of Makata Wood, with solid front panels that emphasize the beautiful contrasting grains, color, and natural characteristics, along with a luminescent sheen that changes with the light. There is no veneer here, just solid hardwood panels. The back is fully finished as well, allowing the piece to float in the middle of a room.

Solid Makata Wood.

A wire management system allows cables to flow between shelves and to the outside of the sideboard. A leather clasp gathers wires cleanly together.

The tenna oil finish is resistant to spills and stains and will sustain for years with proper maintenance. The pieces have been used in a variety of hospitality settings from hotels to retail spaces. For more information about taking care of this piece, view our Care Guide.

Makata Finishes

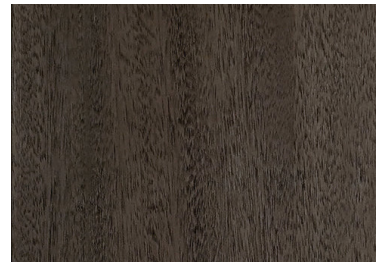

Sun at Six chose to work with Makata for its incredible grain and its sustainability. Makata Wood is as hard as oak with a color and grain similar in some instances to English Walnut. Its standout characteristic is strikingly dark heartwood. The wood species also has a beautiful variety of wood grain patterns that creates a flowing variation in color tone throughout an individual plank.
