Wolo Sideboard

The Wolo Sideboard focuses on the beautiful grain and natural characteristics of Makata Wood, with solid front panels that emphasize the beautiful contrasting grains, color, and natural characteristics of Makata, along with a luminescent sheen that changes with the light. There is no veneer here, just solid hardwood panels. Even the back is fully finished, allowing the piece to float in the middle of a room.

Solid Makata Wood.

A wire management system allows this piece to double as a media cabinet. Cables can flow between shelves and to the outside of the sideboard. A leather clasp gathers wires cleanly together.

The tenna oil finish is resistant to spills and stains and will sustain for years with proper maintenance. The pieces have been used in a variety of hospitality settings from hotels to retail spaces.

Handcrafted with traditional joinery.

Makata Finishes

Sun at Six chose to work with Makata for its incredible grain and its sustainability. Makata Wood is as hard as oak with a color and grain similar in some instances to English Walnut. Its standout characteristic is strikingly dark heartwood. The wood species also has a beautiful variety of wood grain patterns that creates a flowing variation in color tone throughout an individual plank.
