

Southern Lights

Celebrating its 30th anniversary this year, Tayma Fine Jewellery has debuted Aurora Australis, a dazzling pair of opal earrings that feature a rare, matched pair of unusually long 7cm opals. The enchanting greens and blues of the stones are further emphasised with icy white diamonds, neon Brazilian Paraiba and peacock blue Indicolite tourmalines.

Jade Re-imagined

Michael Lo learned the craft of cutting jade from his father; since then, he's refined his skills of sourcing, crafting and designing jade over a 50-year period. His brand Dejade reimagines classic jade jewellery and is a reflection of the richness of Chinese tradition imbued with Western touches.

Two Into One Does Go

Chanel has reinvented the Coco Crush Totem rings with a new design featuring two lines that meet to form a single ring. The two

C-shapes come together, a motif distinct to Chanel, and are available in the brand's proprietary beige gold and white gold, set with diamonds.

King of Diamonds

Proving that inspiration can come right at your doorstep, the Winston Cluster collection was inspired by a holly wreath at Harry Winston's Scarsdale estate. The cluster motif, using various fancy cuts of diamonds, beautifully brings out a three-dimensional design that maximises the splendour of each gemstone.
