

PONTING

*2023 'Rianna'
Fleurieu Peninsula Rosé*

Region

Fleurieu Peninsula, a rugged, cool-climate coastal region of undulating terrain, rolling slopes, and gentle hills, poses no viticulture limitations. Arguably the best climatic conditions for producing table wines, the region yields a selection of fragrant, crisp whites and boasts aromatic reds of elegance.

Vintage

The 2023 vintage was a tough one, with later than usual ripening and harvesting. The above average rainfall in October and November, followed by cold winds and continuing rain into spring prolonged the ripening process. Although we saw a below-average yield for the vintage the quality of the fruit is exceptional, and patience has certainly paid off.

Wine

The juice was gently drained off the grapes that were picked in the cool of the morning to get low colour and phenolic extraction. A portion of the wine was fermented in old barrels to create textural features, whilst the remainder was fermented and clarified in tank to make a more aromatic component. The Rianna Rose is made in a fresh and dry style from predominantly Cabernet Sauvignon. Translucent pink in colour with scents of ripe strawberry followed by pomegranate, musk and spice. The palate is refreshingly clean with spicy cherry, raspberry and blood orange finish.
