Sourcing Information

Authenticity

The product or recipe is native to the producer’s region and has historically been part of the regional food culture.

Social Responsibility

The producing company’s social and financial practices and policies are designed to ensure maximum benefit to the company’s employees and to the local community and economy.

Local Ownership

The producing company is privately or worker-owned with a majority of the owners being local community members.

Local Sourcing

A majority of ingredients are purchased within the region in which the company is located AND are either grown by the producing company or are purchased from the farmer or a farmer organization at fair prices.

Environmental Stewardship

The producing company’s environmental practices and policies are designed to minimize environmental impact through the elimination of chemicals and waste, and the reduction of resource use.
