Polish pilot streaking ahead in Spitfire vote

The RAF Museum's public vote to choose the greatest Spitfire Mark V pilot in history appears destined to be a landslide victory for Franciszek Kornicki, the last surviving Polish Second World War squadron commander. After attracting a massive groundswell of public support from the Polish community, thanks partly to a campaign led by a Polish news magazine, Mr Kornicki, 100, is leading the poll by more than 250,000 votes.
