Are We There Yet? Rules:

Choose one player to be the dealer, and decide the length of the game (either in time or distance). The dealer shuffles the pack and deals five cards facedown to each player.

The object of the game is to score points by spotting the items shown on their cards. When a player sights one of the items, they point it out to the other players and hold up the relevant card. That card is then put aside, and a new card taken from the pack.

Note: Sightings have to be of things outside the vehicle that you're travelling in.

At the end of the game, the player with the most points is the winner.

If a player has a particularly difficult card, they may choose to discard it. To do so, they must also return at the same time a card that they have already sighted – this card will therefore not count towards the player's score. Replacement cards are taken from the pack.

CAUTION: The driver of the vehicle cannot participate in this game.
