Introduction to DISC Flow® Connect

Yna, the DISC Flow® Connect has been designed to help you better understand Gray and improve the overall quality of your relationship.

The following pages allow you to explore your natural similarities and differences, and how these might impact upon how well you connect with each other. Put simply, by better understanding the dynamics of your relationship with Gray, you can adapt your approach to the needs of the situation, and get a better outcome.

Throughout the report, you will be looking at the advantages and disadvantages of these similarities and differences, and how you can best work with them for mutual benefit. These similarities and differences can be accounted for by the position of your respective DISC Styles, and show how close, or how far apart your behavioural tendencies might be.

We don't claim that this report will give you all the answers, but we do hope you find much to engage your interest and that you find some important insights and useful tips to help you build a stronger and more productive relationship with Gray.

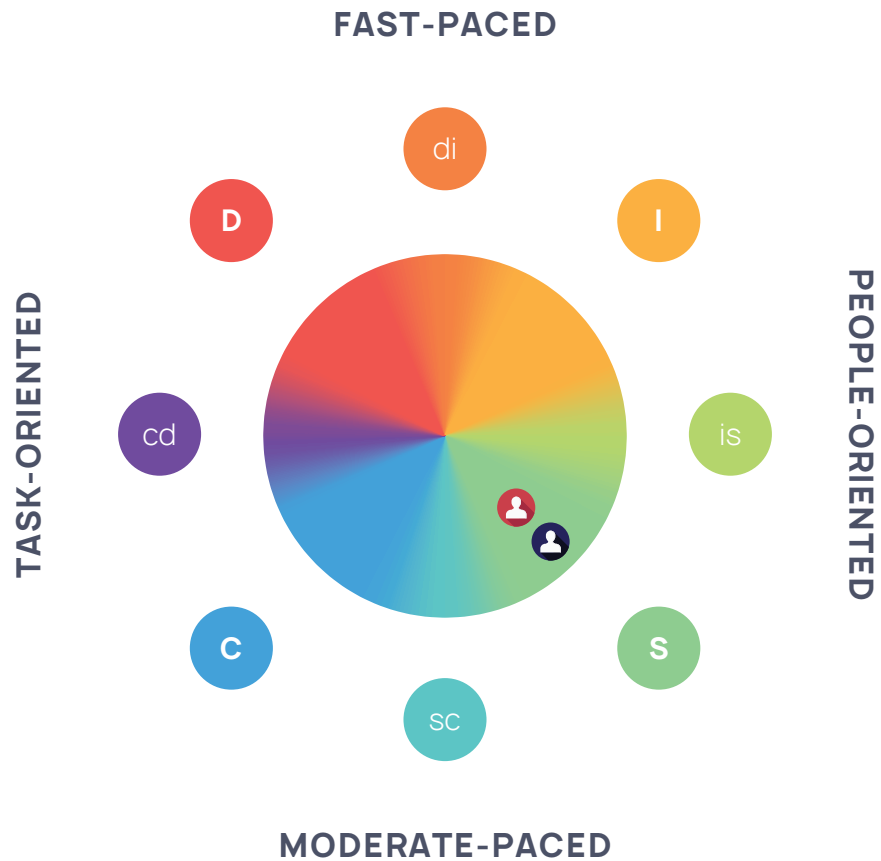

The image on your left shows the placement of the pace and priorities dichotomies, while the diagram on the right shows an example of behavioural tendencies ascribed to each of the four core DISC Styles.

DISC Styles: Discovering Similarities and Differences

YNA JACKSON | GRAY SILVER

GENERAL CHARACTERISTICS

Both of you are considered as Moderate-paced and People-oriented.

  A Moderate-paced person generally takes some time to reflect before responding to a situation. They are thoughtful and may find sudden change uncomfortable. There is also a sense of control in their thoughts, actions and communication style.

  A People-oriented person is generally focused on the thoughts, feelings, and emotions of themselves and others. They prioritise relationships and are encouraging and supportive in their approach. They prefer to work in collaboration with others to get the job done.
