Rio Martingale sizing instructions

To properly measure your dog for a Rio Martingale collar, please read and follow these steps:

- The "Fully Tightened" measurements in the chart below refers to the length of the leather straps touching (not including the rings)
- The "Fully Extended" measurements in the chart below refers to the maximum circumference when the collar and chain are completely opened.
- The 2 steel rings on either ends of the collar add an additional 1"-2" to the overall length of the collar (depending on the size of the collar as the rings vary in size accordingly). For example, a 14" Rio Martingale collar refers to the length of the leather strap, not including the rings.

Measure the middle of your dog's neck, or slightly higher up on the neck, depending on how you intend to use the collar.

- If you want the collar to pinch when the dog pulls, choose between 1.5" - 2" sizes smaller than your dog's actual neck size.

For example, if your dog's neck measure 16.5", and you want to use the collar to pinch the neck when the dog is pulling, your perfect size would be a 14" Rio Martingale collar.

- If you do not want the collar to pinch when the dog pulls and simply want the collar to close comfortably snug around the neck, choose 1 size down from the actual neck size.

For example, if your dog's neck measures 18", choose the 16" Rio Martingale collar. The 2 rings on either end will give you an additional 1.5"- 2" in length.

Note: Because each dog is unique, the above information is meant to give you direction on which size to choose. For additional assistance, please contact us.

breed / weight specific size chart

The following Breed/Weight Specific size chart is intended to aid in helping you choose the correct Angel collar for your dog. The average (normal) breed weights listed may or may not reflect your dog's true specifications. Each dog is unique and may not fall within the below range. In many cases, more than one collar size is listed in the chart below:

- If your dog is on the lighter end of the weight chart, the smaller size collar would likely be a better fit

- If your dog is on the heavier end of the weight chart, the larger size collar would likely be a better fit

If your dog does not fall within the specifications listed, please measure the middle of your dog's neck and refer to the Angel Collar size chart (above) to find the perfect fit. Every Angel collar has 5 holes (settings). The perfect collar size would normally mean that it is buckled at the centre / middle (3rd) hole.

* For example, if your dog's neck measures 20", your optimal Angel collar size would be a 24" collar.

- ⚠ Note - For the Rio Martingale collar sizing, please refer to page 12 for instructions.
