3 CANDY CRUSH

Furla is marking the 10th anniversary of its beloved highlighter-hued Candy bag with the launch of the Re-Candy, a greener version of the top-handle that uses recycled materials. With a range of poppy shade options (including hot pink, orange, and chartreuse), it's the perfect New Year's pick-me-up.

4 ENGLISH ROSE

Get your nostalgic fix of all things British as Batsheva teams up with Laura Ashley on a 15-piece capsule. Designer Batsheva Hay dove deep into Ashley's archives to revive several floral prints that crop up on everything from aprons to matching mother-daughter dresses, complete with Victorian details that would look right at home on any Sloane Ranger. The collection launches at Fivestory Palm Beach this month.

CHICEST HOSTESS GIFT

Celine's artistic director, Hedi Slimane, is inviting you into his Parisian home via a brand-new collection of sleek candles from Celine Haute Parfumerie. Slimane describes L'Inventaire, ELLE's favorite scent, this way: "L'Inventaire's accords of oak, cedar, rockrose, and ambergris capture the spirit of my apartment in Saint-Germain-des-Prés: the Versailles parquet lit by parchment lampshades and golden wood chandeliers, the streamlined wood on the Eyre de Lanux chairs, the piles of books on modernist tables—the warmth of an inherently Parisian place."

POP STAR

Andy Warhol's obsession with beauty is well documented: He captured the era's most alluring icons in his art—and once said, "I've never met a person I wouldn't call a beauty." So it's fitting that the Andy Warhol Foundation for the Visual Arts partnered with beauty brand SK-II to create three Warhol-inspired holiday designs for SK-II's best-selling Essence. The collaboration will support the philanthropic work of the foundation.
