Translucent boxes with natural colour of the material
The trend for polypropylene products was to use colourful design schemes. However, MUJI developed uncoloured cases by eliminating the colouring process from the production process. Not only does the omission of the colouring process reduce costs, but it also allows you the see what's in the drawers while obscuring the contents with the cloudiness to maintain neat looks.

Large cases are available in four series. Mix and match the items from a variety of dimensions according to the size of your storage space. The cases feature drawers, which prevent dust from accumulating. Casters can be attached for easy mobility.
