

SUNSET SAVANNAH SAFARI

WRITTEN BY BAILEY GROSVENOR

Professor PODS our travelling scientist Pro
Is looking for a brand new place to go...

“I’ll enlist Mrs Badger; she’ll be up for the trip.
Right, let’s get going – all aboard the airship.”
Hatches closed, ignition fired, seat belts on, you know the beat
Bursting into the sky, the air inside the Pod begins to heat.

Just as our travellers begin to get warm,
Mrs Badger exclaims, “My goodness – what is that.... A SWARM??”
And here we find our POD, chased through the skies, accelerating and whirling, chased by a pesky swarm of flies!

Crashing and burning, the POD careers onto the ground,
What do our travellers see but a meerkat family popping up from a mound!
“Well, I never,” says the Professor,
“Mrs Badger, I believe we’re in Africa, aren’t we clever?”

“Don’t be silly, Professor, it cannot be so,
I haven’t even seen a single buffalo.
While this is all very amusing,
Did you follow the map, what browser were you using?”

“What else but Safari?
And from the looks of it, we’re probably somewhere North of Harare.”
“Don your khakis, Mrs Badger, we need to blend in.
Look at this enormous footprint, that big cat will be after our skin!”

And so into the midday heat our intrepid explorers depart, the bright African sun like some magnificent canvas of abstract art.
“I wonder, Professor, do you think we’ll spot the Big Five?”
“Right now, Mrs Badger, my focus is on keeping us alive.
