

V5 – CHAMPION

All's well in Aurélié's life! Total harmony reigns in her family (if you exclude the differences of opinion she still maintains with her mother about how to run the household). In addition, since she started dating a popular guy, her social life has been turned upside down. New friends, the respect of her peers, going out, getting away with cracking jokes in class... What more could she ask for? Nothing. Except maybe a paranormal power to divide herself in two. Because in addition to learning to balance her school, family, love and social lives, she needs to open up to new areas of interest (the sports played by her boyfriend), manage her image (so she can get accepted by her new group), but, above all, remain herself (not easy in the midst of all this craziness). For a girl who has never been that great at math, Aurélié adds accomplishments, subtracts some friends, feels split in two and multiplies the number of complications!

V6 – TIME TO MOVE!

Before celebrating her sixteenth birthday, Aurélié has a whole list of things to get done: finish her senior year (mandatory for getting into a good university), find a job (mandatory according to her mother), pack (mandatory according to the movers) and above all, remain calm. Moreover, she has to mentally prepare for a few days of camping (an activity she hates) with her grandparents. But what if she decided to actually stay there and learn to live totally in the wild? After all, despite the presence of potentially dangerous animals, the lack of Internet connection and the existence of a few really giant spiders, the great outdoors can be beneficial to just about anyone (especially if you want to get really far away from a new home you didn't ever really want to inhabit...). Even if big-time changes are sometimes terrifying, it's time for Aurélié to stow away her fears, pack up her troubles and look forward to the future.

V7 – FULL OF SECRETS

Aurélié is entering into her final year of high school. Since everything's been going okay in her personal life, she really wants to concentrate on her studies. But her attention is easily diverted from her academic ambitions—and not only because some YouTube clips are downright hilarious—especially when everyone around her begins to act mysteriously! Her mother, with whom she seemed to have reached an unprecedented level of peace and harmony, changes—in a way that is just as subtle as it is incomprehensible—into an absolute monster. Her best friend starts acting bizarre around her ex. Aurélié quickly discovers that having a boyfriend, even if he's the one we've dreamed of forever, can definitely complicate things. As if all that wasn't enough, she can't connect with any of her new teachers and freezes up completely when they ask her about her plans for her future. To figure out what she really wants, she must climb out of her shell and take a look at her true emotions.

V8 – DOWN TO EARTH

The time for procrastinating is over! With just a few months to go before finishing high school, Aurélié has little time to devote to her personal life: she must fill out all her college admissions forms, settle on a career path and, above all, manage to convince herself that all her neurons are still firing correctly. But with a prom to prepare for (difficult when you have no sense of style or particular talent for finding a handsome date), her ability to stay on task will be sorely tested. Other things are going on that require Aurélié to deviate from her plans. Between her mother's pregnancy and her friends' complicated love lives, she must confront her past, her fears and her personal wounds. In this volume, which marks the end of her fantastic and moving adventures, Aurélié discovers that to become the woman she wants to be, she must make peace with her past and accept herself as she truly is.
