

Your Box of Memories

Somebody who has dementia might not be able to remember something that just happened, like going for a walk or eating their dinner, but they often have very special memories from when they were much younger. Making a memory box can help someone with dementia to keep these lovely memories alive.

Can you write your name on your very own memory box, decorate it and write or draw the things around it that you would like to remember forever?

Colour in!

Why is Oscar feeling sad?

What do you think might cheer him up?

Fill the space around him with nice things!

Grandma's Chair

Can you design a new pattern for Grandma's special chair?
