

JANUARY 25, 2024

15 Must-See Museum Exhibits to Visit This Winter

As temperatures continue to drop and you're looking for indoor activities, look to these fashion and art exhibits around the world to pass the time this winter.

By Caroline Cubbin

Whether you're staying local this season and looking for something new to do, or setting off on a winter vacation, why not keep up to date on culture this season with a visit to a unique art installation?

With winter 2024 museum exhibits celebrating famous household names in the art world, innovative and historically overlooked female artists, and fashion exhibitions of great designers, these limited-time exhibits are excellent options to explore this season to brush up on your cultural knowledge. From Florence to Paris to Marrakech, explore these educational, awe-inspiring art and fashion exhibitions this winter.

Winter 2024 Museum Exhibits: "B" Dry Goods, Fashion Forward

Original Givenchy drawing of his famous little black dress designed for Audrey Hepburn in Breakfast at Tiffany's. Photo Courtesy of "B" Dry Goods.

The Brooklyn-based gallery "B" Dry Goods has launched an exhibition presenting a wide range of fashion arts, including original paintings and drawings by iconic names like Yves Saint Laurent, Hubert de Givenchy, Karl Lagerfeld, and others. Along with original paintings, the gallery is showcasing textiles and garments that have significantly impacted the fashion world today. Some standouts include Marie Antoinette's traveling wardrobe trunk and an original Givenchy drawing of Audrey Hepburn's little black dress in Breakfast at Tiffany's.

Where: "B" Dry Goods, 679 Franklin Ave. Crown Heights, Brooklyn

When: January 25, 2024 - March 30, 2024