

BROOKLYN

JANUARY 25, 2024

A 'SALTBURN' PARTY AND 'OUR CLASS' AT BAM: 17 THINGS TO DO THIS WEEKEND

Plus a 'fashion forward' exhibit in Crown Heights, and it's still Restaurant 'Week,' so try out some local joints

By Joshua Encinias

Yes, everybody is tired. But the weekend is here, and Brooklyn has plenty to get you out and about.

McNally Jackson comes to The William Vale on Friday afternoon for a good old-fashioned book swap. Plus, there's a "Saltburn" party on Friday night at 3 Dollar Bill (and shudder to think what the specialty cocktail might be).

Saturday brings the Polar Bear Half & 5K in Prospect Park in the morning, and Second City hosts "The First City Revue" at their shiny new venue in Williamsburg.

Get an early start on the Lunar New Year at the Brooklyn Museum on Sunday afternoon, where you can enjoy a lion dance performance by the Chinese Freemasons Athletic Club. There's also a comedy fundraiser for Gaza at The Bell House that night.

<https://www.bkmag.com/2024/01/25/a-saltburn-party-and-second-city-revue-17-things-to-do-this-weekend/>

See what Brooklyn has in store for your weekend below.

Friday, January 26

'Fashion Forward' at 'B' Dry Goods

Through March 30

A new exhibit at "B" Dry Goods in Crown Heights an presents a wide-ranging celebration of the fashion arts, featuring original paintings and drawings by designers Yves Saint Laurent, Pierre Balmain, Hubert de Givenchy, Karl Lagerfeld, Alexander McQueen, Christian Lacroix, Antonio Lopez, Christian Dior and others, as well as original textiles, garments, ephemera and contemporary artworks which straddle or investigate the art and fashion worlds. The show also presents original garments and accessories worn or advertised by figures such as Josephine Baker, David Hockney, Frank Zappa, Maria Callas, Duke Ellington, Paul Newman and others. 679 Franklin Avenue, Crown Heights. Free