Celebrate your kindergarten-bound kid's success with these A+ ideas.

★ INVITE

family and friends over for a casual commencement party (think backyard, not banquet). Spread the word with a sweet "just graduated" photo invite from shutterfly.com.

★ READ

a motivational story to get your kid psyched for the school years ahead. A new book that will become a bedtime fave: I Can Be Anything! by Jerry Spinelli. ($17; amazon.com)

★ MAKE

a cute mini cap. All you need is a paper hat, cardboard, wrapping paper, and a homemade tassel. Go to ehow.com and search tassel for step-by-step instructions.

★ FRAME

a fun diploma to show off in your child's room. Check out the Dr. Seuss-inspired one in the Oh, The Places You'll Go! graduation gift set. ($15; scholastic.com) the upcoming school-free days with games, crafts, and other summer projects. Sign up for our newsletter at parents.com/campmom for tons of ideas.

★ ENJOY

SPACE-SAVING SEAT

Let's hear it for disappearing baby gear! Infantino's Fold & Go Bouncer flattens with the slide of a switch so you can stash it in the closet when friends are over or easily toss it into the trunk. Fully loaded with cute hang toys, a vibration function, nature sounds, and sweet songs, this plush seat is sure to keep you and your baby happy. $50; step2.com
