

DOG SCRATCH WOUND

For the attention of Nena Kondic

Hi Nena

I have a Toy Poodle (Kandy) who had scratched her cheek (facial) quite badly with her back leg, After using cream from a vet it was quite clear to me that It would not work after 8 days of using, the wound was very angry and sore looking, no signs of healing were obvious.

I have never had a reason to use Oxy spray or my Bioptron Compact III Lamp on animals only on people I treated in my Beauty Salon. I decided to give it a go when I read about the successful treatment of horses with Bioptron, in a leaflet I had kept.

I treated Kandy twice a day spraying the wound with Oxy spray then applying the Bioptron lamp to the wound for 6 minutes followed by another spray of Oxy spray again. I sprayed the wound with Oxy Spray in between daily treatments.

This regime lasted for 14 days and to my amazement I saw the wound literally heal every day, no scab formed in the area of the wound, after 10 days all that was left on the cheek was beautiful soft pink skin no scar and the fur was growing back.

felt I had to let you know about this as I could not believe how quickly and easily the wound had healed itself without a scar on the site.

NB (The only addition to the treatment was a small tight sock attached to the back leg and blunting of nails to stop further scratching of the wound)

Regards and thank you for your advice regarding the treatment regime it was so easy.

Janet Fisher and Kandy
Whangarei