

HORSE KICKED SHOULDER SORE EYE

I also treated another horse that had been kicked in the shoulder 3 weeks previously. It started draining freely and was looking good after being stuffed up with vet's creams and was very painful. The horse is enjoying not being touched, so the Bioptron is a huge plus as he would not stand still for hands-on treatment.

While there I noticed another horse had a sore eye (half-closed). I could see he'd put some sort of creme on it. He said he got it from the vet to 'fix' it without the problem being diagnosed but was happy for me to use Bioptron. She loved it, and by the time I'd used purple, green and the Bioptron, her eye was totally open again. I think she might have just speared it with a stalk of hay, watching how she shoved it around with her nose after I put her back in her box.
