

FOOT FRACTURE AFTER FALLING DOWN STAIRS

To whom it may concern

In July 2000 I fell down a few stairs at my home and wrenched my foot. After a few days, I went to my doctor who thought I had sprained it and sent me off to physio. After some time with no relief from pain, I had my foot x-rayed. The result was swollen soft tissue. The pain went on for months with no relief at all. My doctor sent me again for X-rays. This time they showed the 5th Metatarsal had been fractured and the swelling had lessened. Still in great pain, I tried Acupuncture for a few weeks, still with no real relief - then a breakthrough. I saw the Auckland ZOO programme featuring Kashin, the elephant with her ulcerated feet.

After lots of enquiries, I found that a Beauty Clinic here used the Bioptron. I contacted the operator and have used the Machine 5 days a week since March 1st 2001. I am truly amazed at the pain relief I've had already. The fracture has healed, swelling has gone down and the heat has been lessened. I will continue to use the Machine as long as it takes. I just wish I could afford one to buy, but that's out of the question, being on a pension and in my seventies.

I am so grateful for the help I've had from Donna Summerell at "Planet Skin", and to your firm for making the machine available. I am singing your praises loud and clear to anyone who asks how can I manage without my crutch (which I had to use to get around) and I am handing out your Bioptron brochure to them.

Thank you so much.
