

POST-SURGICAL WOUND

I came to the Light and Colour Clinic because I had a post-surgical wound that wouldn't heal for two years.

Two years ago I had an abscess in tissue covering the end of the tailbone. It was caused by an ingrown hair going very deep into the tissue. The hair was taken out surgically but the wound was very deep and kept weeping and couldn't heal.

I tried everything else and the Light and Colour Clinic was a last resort.

Initially, I was coming every second day for three months and then twice a week for another three months and the wound healed completely.

I would like to let more people know about this very gentle but successful treatment that I really enjoyed.

Sincerely,

Krishna Muttu
